

Press Delegates in Port Arthur on Way West to This Coast

Imperial Press Conference Men Start Stage of Journey Which Is to Bring Them Across Prairies and British Columbia; Reach Winnipeg To-morrow Morning.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 14.—The newspapermen who have assembled from all parts of the Empire to visit Canada entered the West this morning when they disembarked from the steamship Hamonic at Port Arthur for a crowded day of sightseeing and functions in the Twin Cities. Two days of rest and relaxation were afforded by the crossing of the lakes from Sarnia. The weather was excellent and the trip was without incident.

Harbors, mills, elevators and waterfalls are being inspected today before the party journeys west. There was luncheon in Port Arthur, and dinner in Port William will be the second formal function of the day, the speakers for the delegates being Sir George Toulmin and Percy Hurd, M.P., and Miss Billington, the delegate from The London Daily Telegraph, who spoke at the Women's Canadian Club on "First Impressions of Canada."

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—The delegates to the Imperial Press Conference will arrive in Winnipeg Sunday morning and remain in this city forty-eight hours before proceeding west. There is no formal programme for Sunday. On Monday the visitors will be entertained by the City of Winnipeg and by the Government of Manitoba, the functions including a civic luncheon at Assiniboine Park and a state dinner at which Sir James Aikins, the Lieutenant-Governor, will preside. The party is scheduled to arrive at Vancouver August 25 and Victoria August 27.

TRY TO SAVE MONEY FOR INVESTORS

Officials in Boston Busy Following Crash of Ponzi Scheme

Boston, Mass., Aug. 14.—The financial whip that had been piloted by Charles Ponzi was high and dry on the rocks to-day and Federal and state officials made determined efforts to salvage the cargo of millions of dollars entrusted to Ponzi by thousands of investors in his "fifty per cent in three months" scheme.

Ponzi ate his breakfast in the Middlesex County Jail in East Cambridge, a prisoner of the United States Government in default of $25,000 bonds. Three officers of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, a rival concern of Ponzi's Secretary, Exchange Company, had their morning meal in the Charles Street Jail, prisoners of the state in default of $50,000 bonds each. Samuel Zorn, said to be an employee of the Old Colony Company, was at headquarters awaiting a hearing on a charge of larceny of $500 from persons unknown.

Life Menaced.
Montreal, Aug. 14.—Montreal may be harboring at the present time members of a gang of assassins who were seeking the life of Charles Ponzi, of Boston, known in police circles here as Carlo Basso.

United States Federal secret service men are at present in the city searching for the alleged black-hander who has been sending threatening letters to Ponzi in Boston. According to the American detectives Ponzi has been followed and intimidated for the last twelve years, or ever since his downfall in this city by an enemy who has sworn to "get him."

Standard Oil of New York to Make A STOCK MOVE

New York, Aug. 14.—The directors of the Standard Oil Company of New York announced a special stockholders' meeting for September 1 to authorize increasing the $75,000,000 capital stock by $150,000,000 in new shares to be distributed as a 200-per cent. stock dividend.

Dominion By-Elections Will Be Brought on Soon

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press)—Writs for the Federal by-elections in East Elgin, Ontario, and Yale, B.C., will be issued early next week, it is expected. "It is probable that the writ for West Peterboro, Ontario, the vacancy due to the resignation of J. H. Burnham, will not be issued until later in the autumn."

Expectations here are that the fight in East Elgin, where the Government candidate will be opposed by a farmer, will be a close one and the result uncertain, but it is thought that Yale, vacant because of the retirement of Hon. Martin Burrell, is likely to return a Government supporter.

QUEBEC MINISTER VICTIM OF THIEVES; FURS WERE STOLEN

Montreal, Aug. 14.—Silver fox furs, fur coats and muffs to the value of between $5,000 and $6,000 have been stolen from the home of the Hon. J. J. Perron, Minister without portfolio in the Taschereau Government.

ANOTHER BRIDGE ACROSS NIAGARA NOW IS PLANNED

Bridgeburg, Ont., Aug. 14.—Major Evan Fraser, M.P. for West and County, announces that he has received official information to the effect that a traffic bridge will be shortly constructed over the Niagara River, work on which will be started in a short time.

U.S.-Canadian Rates on Railways Are Increased

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press)—In an order handed out this morning the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners grants the application of the American Railway Association for an increase in through rates in so far as Canada is concerned, to correspond with increases recently granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission across the line. The increase, however, it is specifically stated, will not apply to freight rates on coal and coke. If there is to be an advance in the rate on these commodities it is delayed until the decision of the Board in the general freight rate case is made. The increase, provided for in to-day's order is effective on or after August 26 upon not less than five days' notice.

The order of the Commission, which is signed by Assistant Chief Commissioner S. J. McLean, sets forth that the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States has made certain rate increases which are applicable to the proportion of joint through rates to or from Canada accruing in the United States. It is deemed expedient by the Board that the proportion of joint through rates should be preserved. Therefore, to quote the order: "It is ordered that the proportions of through rates, and charges between the United States and Canada, fares in both directions, in effect at the date of this order, accruing within Canada, by general or blanket supplement to existing tariffs, be increased to the extent that the through rates, fares and charges shall conform to the judgment of the Board in the application of Canadian carriers for increased rates within Canada."

"That the through rates and fares from points in Canada, to points in the United States, so increased may be published and filed to become effective on or after August 26, 1920, upon not less than five days' notice."

Reports and rumors are flying thick and fast. A report is reported to have been seen both at Natal and Gateway, but while every rumor is traced down nothing has ever come of any of the reports. Fernie is near the centre of the chase being made to land Bassoff's pal.

CREW OF STEAMER HAD NARROW ESCAPE

St. John, N. B., Aug. 14.—Captain Donald Williams and the crew of the steamer Albatross barely escaped with their lives when the vessel was burned to the water's edge and sank at her moorings at Beesley's Point, below Gagetown, on Thursday night.

CHURCH ENDORSES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Lambeth Conference of Anglican Church Urges Admission of Germany

London, Aug. 14.—Emphatic endorsement of the League of Nations as "essentially Christian," was given by the recent Lambeth Conference of the Anglican Church, which was attended by Bishops and Archbishops from all parts of the world, according to an official report on the work of the Conference just issued.

It was urged that the peace of the world, no less than Christian principles, demanded the admission of Germany and other nations into the League at the earliest possible time.

W. H. COATES IS CHOSEN RHODES SCHOLAR FOR B.C.

Vancouver, Aug. 14.—W. H. Coates, a graduate of the University of British Columbia, has been chosen this year's Rhodes Scholar for British Columbia. He is twenty-one years old and the son of Rev. H. H. Coates, D.D.

CHANGE OF TIME.
Halifax, Aug. 14.—The City Council has decided that the city shall revert to standard time on August 29.

POLISH AGENTS GO TO CONFERENCE

Representatives Move to Meet Soviet Delegates; One Woman Stenographer

Warsaw, Aug. 14.—(Associated Press).—Poland's peace delegation of sixteen members, with military aides, clerks and stenographers, one of whom is a woman, prepared last night to leave for the battlefield to meet representatives of the Russian Soviet Government.

Announcement was made to-day that correspondents would not be permitted to go to the front unless work allowing them to travel came from the Bolsheviks.

Officers.
Four of the delegates will be military officers, taking a staff of military officers, representatives, counselors and advisers, and six will be Diet leaders. M. Dombki, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, heads the delegation.

PRIME MINISTER VISITS HAMILTON

Hamilton, Aug. 14.—Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, is paying Hamilton an informal visit to-day, the guest of Hon. S. C. McBurn.

Mr. Meighen will spend to-day and to-morrow here, taking a rest before going to St. Mary's, his home town, where he is to be tendered an official reception.

BRITISH LABORITES ARE CONGRATULATED

Attitude Toward Russia Pleases U.S. Farmer-Labor Presidential Candidate

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Farley P. Christensen, Farmer-Labor candidate for Presidency of the United States, to-day sent a cablegram to William C. Adamson, chairman of the British Labor Party, congratulating the British workers on their determination to resist military intervention against Russia.

The message follows: "British Labor's magnificent determination to resist any form of military intervention against Soviet Russia is humanity's most striking victory over capitalist militarism. You have laid the foundation for a real world league of labor by setting the glorious example of labor's power to the world."

TO PREVENT WAR.
Brussels, Aug. 14.—The International Seamen's Congress here adopted a motion that in order to prevent future wars the seamen will refuse to transport troops and munitions.

Round-the-World Aerial Derby Now Being Planned

Washington, Aug. 14.—Plans are in active preparation for the first "round-the-world" aerial Derby, it became known to-day. A special commission appointed by the Aero Club of America and the Aerial League of America, after covering most of the tentative routes, has completed an organization. A test flight of the entire route is in preparation, the start to be made from London in an improved Handley-Page aeroplane carrying ten passengers.

The tentative route for the Derby itself follows: New York, 2,925 miles to Seattle; to Yokohama, 2,925 miles; to London (coast), 1,876 miles; to Paris, 1,528 miles; to Newfoundland, 1,575 miles; to New York, 1,125 miles. Total distance traversed, 22,201 miles.

DECLARES PREMIERS NEED NOT CONFER

Clemenceau Says Situation Regarding Recognition of Wrangel Is Improved

Petit Parisien Says Questions Involved Are Those of Tactics

Paris, Aug. 14.—Tension between the French and British Governments is rapidly abating, in the opinion of most of the newspapers here. The situation which arose through the recognition of General Baron Wrangel as head of the South Russian Government is so improved, according to L'Homme Libre, that another meeting of Premiers Millerand and Lloyd George at Boulogne will be unnecessary.

One of the circumstances that may best favor a resumption of close collaboration between France and Britain, says The Petit Parisien, is the agreement now realized between France and the United States on the Russian question. The Echo de Paris voices the same opinion.

An Enemy.
"Bolshevism is an enemy," the newspaper continues, "and Britain knows that perfectly. The only questions involved are those of tactics and not of sentiment. These may separate her from France, but the voice from overseas reminds her with special force of her European duty, and it will help to effect all divergencies between France and her Allies."

The Figaro says the Washington note regarding Russia has had several good effects, in that it has brought moral aid to Poland and cleared up the diplomatic situation.

EGREMENT SENT BACK TO CANADA

Deported From the States Charged in Connection With Wire-tapping Scheme

New York, Aug. 14.—Arthur Ecrement, a former member of the Canadian House of Parliament, whose name was drawn into New York's $25,000,000 bond plot, was secretly deported to Canada last night, it was learned to-day at Ellis Island.

Ecrement, whose role in the bond plot was that of a witness, is said to be wanted by the Canadian authorities in connection with an alleged wire tapping scheme in Buffalo and Montreal.

Not Legally Admitted.
The warrant from Washington on which he was deported asserted that he was subject to deportation because he had never been legally admitted as a resident of this country and because he was "liable to become a public charge because of criminal tendencies."

Taken into custody by Immigration officials a few months ago, Ecrement was released on a $10,000 bond pending investigation of his status. Three weeks ago the bond was revoked and Ecrement was confined to Ellis Island.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—Arthur Ecrement was turned over to representatives of the Montreal police at the international border at Route's Point this morning. He was later brought to Montreal and lodged in the city jail.

VETERANS' SECRETARY.
Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—Norman Temple has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Imperial Veterans in Canada, to succeed H. B. Willing, who resigned last Tuesday.

A BREAK BETWEEN COUNCIL IN FIUME AND D'ANNUNZIO

Trieste, Aug. 14.—An open break has occurred between the National Council of Fiume and Gabriele d'Annunzio, whose insurgent troops have been in possession of the city for nearly a year.

DAY OF MOURNING POORLY OBSERVED BY THE TURKS

Constantinople, Aug. 14.—Yesterday was designated here as a day of mourning in Turkey because of the alleged unfavorable character of the Turkish peace treaty. The observance had been poorly advertised and was not generally observed.

DOCKWORKERS IN ITALY ON STRIKE

Trouble Started at Naples, Where Two Labor Bodies Disputed

London, Aug. 14.—A general strike at all Italian ports has been announced, according to a Milan dispatch to The London Times.

At Naples.
Rome, Aug. 14.—A strike of dockworkers has been called at Naples by the Socialist organization there in consequence of a dispute between the two labor organizations of which workers of the port belong. At several other cities along the seaboard a sympathetic strike has been called.

WHOLESALE GROCERS.
Montreal, Aug. 14.—The Canadian Wholesale Grocers' Association will hold its second annual convention in Toronto August 26 and 27.

H. W. HART NAMED BUREAU SECRETARY

Former Clerk in Charge of Provincial Office Returns As Head

According to an announcement made by the Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, this morning, Harvey W. Hart, the actual founder of the G. W. V. A. of Canada, has been appointed to the position of Secretary of the Provincial Bureau of Information, upon the duties of which he will enter immediately.

A Re-Engagement.
While this is actually a new appointment for Mr. Hart, it is also the fulfillment of a promise to consider an application for re-engagement later, made to him by the Government upon his resignation from the service of the Bureau when it ceased its activities in the latter part of 1918 by reason of the stress of conditions imposed by the war. At that stage Mr. Hart was in charge of the department in succession to Mr. McGaffey, with whom he had been associated since December, 1915, and upon whose retirement he assumed control of retained it until the office was closed.

Advertising Campaign.
With the appointment of the new official the Government's programme for the re-organization of this branch of the public service will be set in motion. It will be Mr. Hart's duty to institute a comprehensive advertising campaign with a view to placing the resources of British Columbia before the people of this country and the Motherland.

The primary object of the campaign will be the attraction of settlers of the right kind to this Province, as well as the provision of appropriate advertising material for the special benefit of the investor who requires reliable information.

In the estimates passed at the last session of the Legislature the sum of $25,000 was allocated for advertising purposes and it is believed by reason of the success of the campaign.

Cost of Operation.
Mr. Gillespie laid before the Board data showing the profits made by (Concluded on page 4.)

BOLSHEVIK FORCES LENGTHEN FRONT

French Military Writer Says Soviet Generals Show Daring Designs

Paris, Aug. 14.—Russian Bolshevik generals are carrying out an extraordinarily daring manoeuvre on the fronts north and east of Warsaw, according to Professor Vidou, an eminent military writer, who has telegraphed from Warsaw to The Times regarding the campaign.

Northeast of Warsaw the travel is particularly difficult, being covered by the Narw and Vistula Rivers, the fortress of Modlin being an especially formidable obstacle, he said. The Bolshevik forces are trying to move further westward, probably toward Plock, so as to take Warsaw in the rear, but in so doing they are lengthening their whole front from the Vistula to the Prussian frontier. Professor Vidou declares that this movement exposes the Bolshevik line to a counter-offensive which might easily pierce it even if not delivered in great force.

EX-MINISTER WAS SHOT IN ATHENS

News of Attempt to Assassinate Venezelos Led to Excesses

Athens, Aug. 13.—The news of the attempt to assassinate Premier Venezelos in Paris has resulted in excesses such as the wrecking of plants, the opposition newspapers and the residence of former Premier Skouloudis. Many of the Opposition leaders were arrested.

M. Inagroumis, former Greek Minister to Petrograd, was shot dead while trying to escape from a military escort.

MENNONITES AND MANITOBA SCHOOLS

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—"Moral suasion" having failed to induce old colony Mennonites in Manitoba to provide statutory public schools for their children, a policy of coercion and strict adherence to the letter of the law has been adopted by the Provincial Department of Education.

If the Mennonites remain, their children will be ordered to attend school and strict adherence to the letter of the law has been adopted by the Provincial Department of Education. ## Red Troops Moving Now Toward Rear of Defences of Warsaw

Soviet Forces Attacking Plonsk, Says Polish Official Statement; Roar of Artillery Heard in Warsaw; Russians in Polish Corridor Through Prussia.

Warsaw, Aug. 14, 1 a.m.—(Associated Press)—The Russians attacking Warsaw have worked well toward the rear of that city's defences and are attacking Plonsk, within a dozen miles of the Vistula, northwest of the Polish capital, according to Friday night's official Polish communique.

The statement says the enemy is advancing toward the Novo Georgievsk-Zegrie sector, north of Warsaw, and that masses of Bolsheviks are attacking Nalesek 22 miles northwest of Warsaw and Plonsk 32 miles northwest of Warsaw. The communique announces that the attack upon these places was repulsed.

Warsaw, Aug. 14.—(Associated Press)—The roar of artillery on the battlefield could be plainly heard in Warsaw Friday. The Russians have brought up artillery in the region of Radzymin, just south of the Bug. Observers say, however, that the enemy has not yet hit positions guns heavy enough to reach this city with their fire.

On the northeastern front, along the Bialystok-Warsaw defensive line, according to reports received by The Lokal Anzeiger. Entry into the town was made by the Bolsheviks after a slight engagement and small Soviet detachments are said to be west of the place.

East of Warsaw the Bolsheviks are reported to have crossed the line running between Wyszow and Kazimierz, about thirty miles from the Polish capital.

Defensive Line.
Warsaw, Aug. 14.—The Russian troops are now facing at various places the Warsaw defensive line, along which the Polish newspapers for days past have been insisting the enemy would be checked in his drive on the capital, which has been carrying him from six to ten miles daily in the sweep from the northeast and east.

On this line the Poles are expected to make their final stand and many but not all of the military observers are confident that the Russians will find themselves against an impenetrable defence. It is to this line that the Poles have been withdrawing so as to bring their backs to the national metropolis and it is here that the Russian best troops are now grouped.

Bolshevik Terms.
Washington, Aug. 14.—Information received in official circles here yesterday was to the effect that a plan to determine the future of Russian Poland was one of the peace terms drawn up by the Bolsheviks coincident with the first proposal of an armistice by the Polish Government. The right of unrestricted propaganda in this territory in the year intervening before the plebiscite would be demanded.

While not regarded as final, the terms, prepared for submission at the Polish-Soviet conference, are according to the official statement of the intention of the invaders to impose peace conditions of a drastic nature.

The other terms were reported to include the right of the Soviet Government to unrestricted transmission of all code messages across Poland between Russia and Germany, the turning over of salt and coal mines in Poland for operation by the Soviet Government, and the right of unrestricted travel for all Soviet national (Concluded on page 4.)

SOME COAL WILL BE EXPORTED FROM NOVA SCOTIA SOON

Halifax, Aug. 14.—The embargo on the export of coal recently declared by Hon. F. B. Carvell, Fuel Commissioner and chairman of the Dominion Railway Commission, is to be lifted so as to permit at least some exporting from the Province of Nova Scotia, according to a statement of miners' union officials and operators last night.

HALIFAX LABORITES
SCORE CONGRESS

District Council Will Not Send Delegate to Dominion Meeting

Halifax, Aug. 14.—Charges that the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress was reactionary and machine ruled were made at a meeting of the Halifax District Trades and Labor Council. It was decided by vote not to send a delegate to the Congress this year.

The Council decided to withdraw its endorsement of the Canadian Labor Press, an Ottawa publication, on the ground that the paper is not being published "in the interests of the working class."

MEALS SERVED ON
ALASKA TRAINS

Seattle, Aug. 14.—A traveler back here from Alaska says that Veteran "sourdoughs," who used to pay $2.50 a plate for pork and beans without a murmur and to whom ham and eggs were a sure-enough luxury, take keen comfort in the buffet car recently placed on one of the trains operating between Seward and Anchorage. Tourists who have dined on Uncle Sam's rolling kitchen talk about the menu for a long time thereafter.

For an elaborate dinner of fresh mountain trout with a rasher of bacon the modest sum of $1.25 is asked. Baked or fried Matanuska potatoes are sold for 15 cents an order; grapes, fruit, oranges and other fresh fruits are served for 25 cents, and coffee costs 10 cents a cup. Meats are naturally a trifle higher than they are on the "outside," on account of the high cost of transportation, but Alaska railroad officials believe it will soon be possible to obtain home-grown meat in abundance.

MANY AMERICANS
MOVING TO PRAIRIES

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—Revival of a heavy influx of settlers from the United States to take up Western Canada farm lands is indicated by the arrivals of the last two weeks, a Canadian National Railway official report on immigration conditions said today. Indications point to a record settler immigration from that country in the next two months, according to John Wardrop, of the Canadian National Railways.

ANY MILITARY MOVE

British Workers Make Plain Their Attitude Regarding Polish Situation

London, Aug. 14.—The opposition of British labor to assistance in the war against Russia was voiced yesterday with unanimity at a conference representing all elements of the workers. Resolutions adopted "nailed with satisfaction the Russian Government's declaration in favor of the complete independence of Poland," and pledged the British Labor Party to resist any form of military intervention.

The meeting approved the action of the "triple alliance" of labor organizations in forming a council of action to deal with the situation arising from the Government's policy toward the war between Russia and Poland, and it recommended the levy of a half-penny upon every member of the party to raise a fund for the requirements of the council.

Stood. The adoption of the resolutions viva voce was ratified by the delegates at the invitation of Wm. C. Adamson, chairman of the Labor Party in the House of Commons, who presided over the meeting. He asked them to observe "the solemnity of standing" for a minute, and the delegates unanimously complied with his request.

James H. Thomas, Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, one of the principal speakers at the meeting, said that if circumstances demanded it would be for the whole labor movement to decide upon direct action.

"Desperate." "Desperate and dangerous as our measures are," he said, "we believe that the disease is so dangerous and the situation so desperate that it is only desperate and dangerous methods that can prevent calamity. The resolutions do not mean that it is to be a mere strike or a simple down-tool policy. If they are to be effective they mean a challenge to the whole constitution of this country."

Robert Smillie, of the miners' organization, in discussing the situation said: "If France and General Wrangel cut off Russia's commercial supply, will it be interfering too much with France if the British miners and railway men cut off France's supply?"

Asserting that the British Labor Party leaders were the only people able to prevent an attack on Russia, he went on to say amid cheers: "I want to thank our comrade Winston Churchill for uniting the British democracy. We could not do it ourselves. Now the British people have achieved unity. God send us the sense to preserve it."

League Attacked. Tom Shaw, Secretary of the International Textile Workers' Union, bitterly attacked the League of Nations for not preventing Poland's offensive against Russia. The present conference, he said, was "the beginning of a movement that will lead to a real league."

He asserted the "Bolsheviks were immensely superior to the Allies in their frank dealings with other countries." Robert Williams, General Secretary of the Transport Workers' Union, asserted that labor was far more representative of the sentiment of the country than the House of Commons, and better qualified to pass on the "go to war and go to hell" policy.

The conference concluded by singing the "Internationale" and cheering enthusiastically. By its resolutions the council of action was instructed to remain in being until it secured guarantees that British forces would not be used in support of Poland, Gen. Wrangel or any other military or naval effort against Soviet Russia; secondly, the withdrawal of the British naval forces blockading Russia; and thirdly, recognition of the Soviet Government and establishment of unrestricted trading and commercial relations between Great Britain and Russia.

CHILD DROWNED.

Edmonton, Aug. 14.—Rosy Orchard, a seven-year-old child, was drowned in the Saskatchewan River here yesterday afternoon when she slipped off a wharf where she was playing with another little girl.

Pale Cheeked Women
Told About Restoring A Rosy Complexion

A few years ago the girl with pale, drawn cheeks scarcely knew what to do in order to restore her fading appearance. At that time there was no blood-food medium made that really would put color and strength into systems that were more or less worn out.

To-day it's different. The blood can be quickly nourished, can be made rich, red, and healthy. All you have to do is take two Ferrozone Tablets with a sip or two of water after meals. The effect is almost magical.

Mothers, look at your children. Are they ruddy and strong—do they eat and sleep well, or are they pale, weak, and anemic?

Ferrozone will rebuild them. Take your own case—is your blood strong and rich? Have you that old-time strength and vigor, or are you somewhat under the weather?

Ferrozone will supply the strengthening elements you require. It is a blood-forming, nourishing tonic that makes every ailing person well.

Ferrozone is a marvelous remedy. It contains in concentrated form certain rare qualities that especially fit it in cases of anemia, poor color, thin blood, tiredness, and loss of weight.

Every day you put off using FERROZONE you lose ground. Get it today, sold in 50-cent boxes by all dealers, or by mail from the C. A. Ferrozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

SALES OF BONDS

WERE $19,380,733

Canadian Total For July; Provincial Issues Included
British Columbia

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Sales of Canadian bonds in the month of July totalled $19,380,733, as compared with $15,758,711 in June, according to The Monetary Times. The following is a summary: Provincial, $15,800,000; municipal, $2,080,733; corporation, $500,000.

The outstanding feature of the month was the large volume of provincial financing. Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia each placing large issues on the market.

VETERANS TO TEACH IN ONTARIO SCHOOLS

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Two hundred ex-soldiers of Ontario will enter upon their new duties when the public schools of Ontario open on September 1. The entry of the war veterans into the teaching profession is regarded with great favor by the Education Department authorities because the male school teacher has lately been disappearing from public school life. It was one of the last acts of Hon. H. J. Cody, when Minister of Education in the Hearst Government to provide for the training of public expense of returned men in the teaching profession. To his call there was a splendid response, the students including ex-officers, men with business experience, men with university training, ex-N.C.O.'s, young men and married men of mature age and experience.

POPE DID NOT FALL AND RECEIVE INJURY

Rome, Aug. 14.—Emphatic denial was given at the Vatican late yesterday to the report printed in The Messenger that the Pope had sustained a fall.

Monsignor Cerretti, Papal Under-Secretary of State, declared that he returned Thursday from Switzerland, where he had been on a vacation, with Monsignor Charles A. O'Hern, rector of the American College at Rome, and that both he and Monsignor O'Hern saw the Pope on their return and found him perfectly well. There had been no accident, he said.

REDS FORCED TO RELIEVE PRISONERS

Constantinople, Aug. 13.—Bolsheviks at Odessa seized two French steamships and prisoners there from France, and refused to release them until the French battleship Edgar Quinet, with three destroyers, was pushed from Constantinople, and threatened to raise the city unless the steamships were released. It was learned today.

Four steamships under French and inter-allied flag arrived at Odessa with repatriated Russian prisoners, these advices stated. Two were permitted to leave, but the others were boarded by Bolshevik emissaries. The Bolsheviks declared that the Moscow Government had decided to hold the ships. The commissars overlooked a wireless set on board and an S. O. S. message had been sent to Constantinople.

FRENCH BELIEVE
GERMANS AIDING
BOLSHEVIK FORCES

Montreal, Aug. 14.—A special cable from Paris to The Montreal Star says: "The French appear firmly of the opinion that Germany is backing the Bolshevik drive on Poland."

"A report from Swiss military sources said that Ludendorff, former commander of Germany's armies, was giving the Russians tactical advice right along, and that Germany was sending supplies directly to the Bolsheviks."

NORRIS GOVERNMENT
RETAINS CONTROL

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—Supporters in the Legislature of Premier Norris, interviewed here, express the opinion that the Government's position in the House has not been impaired by Thursday's conference of the Independent Farmer, Labor and Conservative groups.

"As long as the three other factions in the House fail to come to an understanding the Government's position is unassailable," said one member.

"We recognize that an alliance between the progressive farmers and Labor will be the basis of future government, but the Labor Party has its principles and will stand by them," said W. D. Bayley, Labor member for Assiniboia.

"At Thursday's meeting no common basis of action was reached between the Labor and Farmer members. Labor will be met by its platform, and what we have been struggling for years will not be set aside just to get into power a few months earlier. Labor has a perfectly clear policy, and there will be no divergence from it on any grounds."

EXPECTS BUSINESS OF
P.G.E. TO INCREASE

Vancouver, Aug. 14.—Impressed with the possibilities of the country which his company serves, A. B. Buckworth, recently appointed general manager of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, has just returned from his first inspection of the line from Squamish to Quesnel. The possibility of agricultural development between Lillooet and Quesnel was the particular feature that appealed to him, and in view of the favorable conditions in this district he expects much settlement there in the next few years.

"The general manager is looking to see the road do the biggest business in its history this Fall and Winter."

FIRE LOSSES IN

JULY $1,426,850

Total For Canada Compiled by Monetary Times;
$1,424,319 in June

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Fire losses in Canada totalled $1,426,850 in July, according to The Monetary Times. This is the lowest for the year with the exception of June, when the figure was $1,424,319. It exceeds the July losses in 1917 and 1919, but is less than half the exceptional figure of $3,369,684 in July, 1918, when several large fires took place. The fire loss for the first seven months of 1920 was $14,409,113, compared with $14,482,326 for the same period in 1919.

ANGLICAN CHURCH "DEEPLY INTERESTED" IN PROHIBITION

London, Aug. 14.—A resolution of "deep interest" in the prohibition movement was adopted at the recent Lambeth Conference of the Anglican Church in which the action of Canada and the United States was commended to the earnest and sympathetic attention of the Christian churches throughout the world, according to an official report of the work of the Conference issued today.

GROUP OF ULSTERITES AGAINST PARTITION

Irish Unionist Anti-Partition League Favors Dominion Scheme

London, Aug. 14.—A dispatch from Dublin says that the Irish Unionist Anti-Partition League, founded last year, declared for self-government in Ireland at a meeting in Dublin Thursday, which was attended by representatives of commercial and professional men and landowners. A resolution was unanimously adopted which said the Government's Irish bill now before Parliament was not acceptable to the Irish people and that it should be amended so as to give full control to the Irish people over all local affairs, including taxation.

The resolution urged the Government to act immediately, "as every passing month makes it more difficult." The Times yesterday carried reports of the meeting in Dublin of the Irish Unionist Anti-Partition League furnished by influential Unionists who were concerned with the meeting, among them Lord Castlemaine, Lord Rathdowney, General Crosskill and Sir Charles Barrington.

A resolution passed by the meeting, the reports show, places on record the League's action, taken in view of the strong representations which had reached those responsible for the resolution from devolutionists throughout Ireland. "While still believing legislative union to be the best form of government for Ireland," the resolution says, "it is realized that the British Government has failed to secure observance of law, and has lost the confidence of all classes."

"We therefore feel that our duty to the country and Empire forces us to acquiesce in the only solution of the legitimate troubles which appears to offer a prospect of lasting peace."

The Dublin correspondent of The Times says: "No Unionist action in recent years is regarded as important as that taken at the meeting."

Unionist Statement.
London, Aug. 14.—That Ulster Unionists of all classes were never more united than now, and their confidence in Sir Edward Carson as leader of the Unionist Party was never greater, was the substance of a statement made yesterday by R. Dawson Bates, secretary of the Ulster Unionist Council. The statement was made in reference to the report from Dublin of a "significant split" in the ranks of Sir Edward Carson's followers.

COURSE OF LECTURES ON FARM TOPICS

Provision to Be Made For Lutton and Happy Valley Settlers

Metochosin, Aug. 13.—A meeting was held at Lutton Hall on Thursday of the Directors of the Metochosin Farmers' Institute and the residents of Lutton and Happy Valley to consider a petition received by A. Hankin, secretary of the Farmers' Institute, of which the following is a copy:

"We the undersigned, residents of Lutton and Happy Valley and members of the Farmers' Institute, request you to arrange for a series of full-course lectures, to be held during the forthcoming winter months at Lutton Hall on Poultry, Dairying and Fruit Growing. The subjects to be fully dealt with and complete. We also request you to arrange for the formation of a committee with a view to holding an agricultural show at Lutton Hall in August or September. (Signed) Arthur Sutton, Harry A. Farr, H. Curtis, E. G. Sutton, D. Emery, F. C. Fryer, A. E. Smith, R. Betts, H. K. Narrows, L. J. Erice, Dan. G. Ruddle, A. Lund, Arthur Carter, A. Rhode, P. W. Pearson, B. W. Clements, J. Temple, H. Weber, Major H. Meredith Jones, F. Batchelor, H. McCall, J. Blatchford, R. Brown, H. Taylor."

Major Meredith Jones, whom with Harry Curtis originated the petition, in speaking on the subject, was of the opinion that the land in the Happy Valley and Lutton districts, properly cultivated would grow anything, and made a strong appeal for the necessary information and advice regarding the condition of the land and what the various sections were most suited to, and such could only be obtained by the series of classes as suggested in the petition.

The Chairman's View.

C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, president of the Metochosin Farmers' Institute and Chairman of the meeting, assured the people of the co-operation and help of the directors, saying that it was an excellent opportunity to get together and reminding them that it was only by organized effort that results could be obtained. Mr. Griffiths suggested that lectures on Soils and Crops should be included in the winter programme which suggestion was received with enthusiasm. Mr. Curtis remarking that it was a most essential thing, especially to the newcomers, of whom there are many, to be thoroughly educated regarding the condition of the soil they were to cultivate.

Mr. Whitney-Griffiths promised to interview the heads of the different departments with a view to commencing the lectures early in October.

With regard to the proposed Fall Fair, Major Jones said they had come to the conclusion that it was too late to attempt anything in the way of an exhibition this year, but hoped to see a small local show, which in his opinion should be fostered by the Metochosin Farmers' Institute, next year. The chairman agreed with this and reminded the members of the Provincial Show to be held in Victoria September 20 to 25, at which

Wives and Mothers Need Not Have Sore Backaches

Constantly on their feet, attending to the wants of a large and exacting family, women often break down with nervous exhaustion.

In the stores, factories and on a farm are weak, ailing women, dragged down by torturing backache and bearing down pains.

Such suffering isn't natural, but its dangerous, because due to diseased kidneys.

The dizziness, insomnia, and other symptoms of kidney complaint can't cure themselves, they require the assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which go direct to the seat of the trouble.

To give vitality and power to the kidneys, to lend aid to the bladder and liver, to free the blood of poisons, probably there is no remedy so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For all womanly irregularities, their merit is well known.

Because of their mild soothing and healing effect, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are safe, and are recommended for girls and women of all ages. 25c per box at all dealers. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

A TONIC FOR THE NERVES

The Only Real Nerve Tonic is a Good Supply of Rich, Red Blood.

"If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing which the specialist spoke of is the nervous run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of today. Sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise huffs like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red blood. Therefore to relieve nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills make new, rich blood, which strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

they could enter anything that they had which was worth while.

H. C. Helgesen, an old time resident of Metochosin district, in his address to the meeting, gave some sound advice, based upon knowledge of crops grown in these districts, extending over many years.

There are a few vacancies for boys over twelve in this Troop; apply at once before the winter programme commences.

James Bay Wolf Cub Pack.
Headquarters as above. Meet on Friday at 7 p.m. Cubmaster Patt in charge.

MacLean Troop and Pack.
Headquarters, Esquimalt Road. Scoutmasters, P. Trowdale and A. MacArthur. Pack meets on Thursday, 7.30 p.m. Troop meets on Friday, 7.30 p.m.

The Cub officers had a very enjoyable week-end camp at Parson's Bridge, where they camped by kind invitation of Dr. Francis who has been their host on previous camping trips.

The Camp was strictly a business one, being held in order to give the Sixers and Seconds a thorough test in the work for the First Star. The Camp was thoroughly enjoyed by all, bathing, being included in morning and evening, and one of the Sixers learned to swim, following elementary instruction at Goldstream. The time was too limited to allow of elaborate cooking, but the flapjacks and porridge were pronounced O.K. by the Scoutmaster, who fancies himself as a critic.

NOTES

Rover Scouts.
The notice that the James Bay Troop has started a Rover Patrol, is of considerable interest to Scouting circles in Victoria. The Rover idea, or rather what eventually became the Rovers, had been a dream of the leading Scout men of Great Britain for some years, but it was not until 1917 that the first scheme for the Rover was put on foot.

Since then their growth has kept pace with the rest of the Movement. No less than eight editions of the Provisional Rover Rules have been published in two years, and Rover Troops and Patrols exist wherever Scouting has become a permanent organization. The age of Rover Scouts is from sixteen up, although in some instances a higher age is set, and many Troops in the "Old Country" number ribbon bedecked veterans of the late war in their ranks.

Old Scouts, of whatever age who would like to return to the Movement but hesitate about taking upon themselves the heavy responsibilities of officers, will find the Rover idea just what they require, while men who have not had Scouting experience, but who would be willing to become officers for the sake of helping the boys, but do not like to do so without knowing more of the details will find that a few months in the Rover work will be a congenial method of gaining the necessary experience.

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE MINES

Work at Stewart.
Theo. Collart, Belgian consul at Prince Rupert, returned on Sunday after accompanying Lucien Danoel, a mining engineer and professor of the University of Liege, to Stewart where they visited mines on both the Skeena and Bulkley rivers. With M. Danoel was Nicolas Van Mypde, one of the directors of the Algonquin Co., a Belgian concern that is doing development work on claims in the Stewart district.

Mr. Collart was away a week. He says that the site for the mill being installed at the Premier mine has been selected and work is going on well there.

On the Spider, owned by the Algonquin Company, a tunnel has been driven in 360 feet, with good ore all the way. This company will ship ore during the coming winter, taking it out over the snow.

LABOR'S DECISION.

Not only while the war was in progress but also since hostilities ceased Britain has been threatened on numerous occasions with the application of what the triple alliance of workers very appropriately have named direct action. In no instance, however, has that threat been followed by a general movement of the three organizations whose membership is responsible for the great propelling force of British industry. The miners, the railwaymen, and the transport workers have taken individual action to a point where trades union leadership as a whole has been quick to detect when public opinion reaches its dividing line of support and opposition to reasonable and fatuous demands. But on no occasion has a stoppage resulted in anything more serious than temporary public discomfort and comparatively trifling pecuniary loss to employer and employee.

The principle involved in each case has been the old principle of wages and working conditions with its effect not alone upon union membership, but also upon the rank and file of wage earners, the majority of whom are unable to shift their individual responsibility to any particular union, and who, as a consequence, invariably have aligned themselves behind public opinion upon whose support the State has depended hitherto. Direct action, therefore, as far as British Labor is concerned, has been nothing more serious than a name up to the present time.

Yesterday's decision is quite a different matter. Wages and working conditions, the discussion and settlement of which invariably create dissension in the ranks of the unions involved themselves, are not an issue. The fundamental principle which engaged the attention of yesterday's gathering was whether Great Britain should permit Russia in order to save Poland from the consequences of her own folly. The conference said no. The decision was a clear one; if the country departs from the policy laid down by Mr. Lloyd George it will amount to the issuance of a challenge to the British constitution itself which Labor—this time apparently united as never before—is ready to accept.

The Adamsons, the Thomases and the Williamses this time are not on the fence benevolently regarding the trials and tribulations of the Government; they are for the nonce solidly with Labor in the defence of a principle that transcends the disputes in which shillings and pence predominate. They know, and Mr. Lloyd George knows, if Great Britain were to embark upon the mad enterprise of attempting to invade Russia—even supposing that men could be persuaded to volunteer in such an adventure, if Labor could be prevailed upon to provide the essential materials—that an immediate reaction against it would set in and tear the very vitals of the country, and probably encourage the trial of the identical experiment which has driven the masses of Russia to ruin.

The British Prime Minister does not like Russia's Government any more than he likes Prussian militarism; but he realizes that it is the choice of a sufficient number of the people in Russia to warrant its continuance for the time being. Therefore, he cannot recommend a policy endangering the loss of more British lives and British treasure when the best that could be hoped for from such a course would very likely be a complete military failure and certain financial calamity.

What is required at the present time is patience and common sense and the understanding that Russia will be compelled, sooner or later, to put her house in order and bring her form of Government more into harmony with the political systems of other countries where the whole of the people understand and appreciate the benefits of true democracy.

DOMINION HOME RULE.

Dominion home rule as a solution of the Irish problem continues to gain ground in England and Ireland, and it is reported that the British Government is in favor of it. How far the measure would be acceptable to the Irish people would depend, of course, upon what it would provide in the way of autonomous power. If it provided for home rule as enjoyed by the overseas Dominions, it would go farther than the most radical solution of the Irish question, short of complete independence, that ever has been proposed. It is reported that the proposal most widely favored would reserve such functions as the control of the army and navy and international relations, but would give Ireland full fiscal authority. This, however, would not be home rule as it exists in the British Dominions, which have absolute control of their armies and navies, and practical control of their international relations. Nevertheless, it would be a concession of the broadest character in contrast with what is proposed in the present bill. It is significant that powerful Unionist elements in Ulster have become supporters of the plan, having been convinced by recent developments that any scheme which involves the partition of Ireland would be an economic blunder and would inevitably fail of its purpose. Home rule has proved an effective panacea for most of Britain's colonial troubles. Without it Canada would have been lost to the Empire years ago. It saved South Africa. It ought to work out successfully in its relation to Ireland. Certainly it would have done so if it had been applied a dozen years ago, when far-sighted overseas statesmen tactfully suggested it to Westminster as a promising solution of the Irish problem.

HOW ABOUT THE DOCKS?

In less than twelve months from now the Empress of Canada will reach this coast to take her place in the trans-Pacific service between British Columbia and the Orient. This palatial craft will outclass in size and appointment all the other liners now in the C. P. O. S. service. That is the reason why the various public bodies interested in the commercial advancement of Victoria would be well advised to make quite sure that when the time comes for the arrival of the Empress of Canada there shall be adequate docking facilities for handling her cargo and passengers. There may be a grave danger of eliminating Victoria as a port of call for the Empress of Canada unless the Dominion Government shows an early sign of developing its property at the Outer Wharf.

EDWARD RAY'S TRIUMPH.

Not infrequently the uninitiated carelessly allude to the Royal and Ancient pastime as an "old man's game." Happily it is true up to a point. Yesterday's finals for the National Open Golf Championship of America, however, was a supreme test of the theory. A large and enthusiastic gallery followed in the wake of the best players of two great nations and saw youth on a par with the veteran. For the most part America's interest centred in young men; every Britisher pinned his hope to two older men from the British Isles. And one of the old men carried off the prize. Ray's triumph establishes the fact that golf is still an old, as well as a young, man's game; but his difference in years only separated him from his nearest opponent by one stroke in two hundred and ninety-five. Thus this fine pastime will continue to call alike to the youth and the veteran. Incidentally, Ray has recompensed British sporting instincts for the loss of the yachting trophy.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

The recommendation made by Mr. Warnicker at Tuesday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club that a camping place for visiting motorists be established at Victoria deserves immediate attention. Practically every important community on the coast has such a place for the accommodation of the rapidly-growing number of motor travellers who carry camp equipment on their tours. It is true there is an excellent camping ground on the city property at Little Cordova Bay, but this suffers from the disadvantage of being too far from town, a circumstance which limits the benefits the city should derive from the influx of visiting motorists who use it. There is an admirable location in that portion of the Beacon Hill Park near Heywood Avenue where the Bantams had their quarters before going overseas which could be easily converted into one of the best campaign grounds for touring motorists on the Coast.

OTHER PAPERS' VIEWS

The French Government is pleased with the American expression of sentiment on the Russo-Polish situation. It takes so little to please some folk.

In the new cylindrical state prison at Statesville, Illinois, each individual cell is to experience the joy of ninety minutes of sunlight each day in addition to the provision of individual washbowls. If Charles Reade were alive to-day he would not have the heart to suggest a credit to the prisoner for those days on which Old Sol sulked.

In the month of July the Government sold twice as much liquor as it did in the corresponding month two years ago. We trust this is not a reflection upon the accuracy of the statements issued by the Provincial Board of Health from time to time which invariably stimulate the belief that all is well with the people of the Province.

One of the Spanish councillors deprecates the policy of the Soldier Settlement Board which allows any man to locate upon land which offers no hope of reward until after he has labored long and diligently in removing the stumps. When will the Dominion Governments realize that massed clearing is the necessary forerunner of massed settlement and greater population for the country?

Mr. George Bell, of this city, has gone to Scotland to assist in the campaign to make that part of the British Empire dry. He left Victoria in perfect weather, the Atlantic crossing should be pleasant, while he will find the people of the Old Country quite nice and hospitable. But his task is not an easy one.

NOTE AND COMMENT*THE TARIFF INTENSIFIES NATIONAL HATREDS.

(Standard, Sydney, Australia.)

Protection promotes a policy of estrangement and national antagonism. With the destructive influence of land monopoly in every land a comable cupid to work its full effects. The people are sedulously taught to regard the evil effects of land monopoly as the results of competition. Shut out from the opportunities of access to their own natural resources, the people of a country fall an easy prey to the policy of grabbing the resources of other countries. Markets, trade routes, etc., become the quest of those people who immediately try to set up a monopoly to the exclusion of other people. And so the tariff means war—perpetual war. With equal opportunity to trade and exchange there is no war about. That we have wars of tariffs, as well as wars of arms, demonstrates conclusively that we are not civilized, or at any rate are only partially civilized. For natural trade is the great civilizer, the harbinger of peace, the missionary of good feeling.

THE FARMER.

(The World Spectator, Moosomin.)

The Farmer has the most sane and natural occupation, and ought to find life sweeter, if less highly seasoned, than any other. He alone, strictly speaking, has a home. How can a man take root and thrive without land? He writes his history upon his land, says John Burroughs. How many ties, how many resources, he has—his friendship with his cattle, his team, his dogs, his improved fields, his intimacy with nature, with birds and beast, and with the quickening elemental forces, his co-operation with the cloud, the sun, the seasons, heat, wind, rain and frost. Nothing will take the various dispositions which the city and artificial life breed out of man like farming—like direct and loving contact with the soil. It draws out the poison, it humbles him, teaches him patience and reverence, and restores the proper tone to the system. Blessed is he whose youth was passed upon a farm. Cling to the farm, make much of it, put yourself into it, bestow your heart and your brain upon it, so that it shall savor of your radiate your virtues after your day's work is done.

the Minister of Finance that good returns will follow its judicious expenditure.

War Service.

The new secretary has seen active service in two campaigns. During the South African war he served as a volunteer with the Imperial Yeomanry, for which service he received the Queen's medal and five clasps. At the outbreak of hostilities in 1914 he joined the 20th Battalion, proceeding overseas with that unit. He was subsequently drafted to the 7th Battalion. He was wounded at the Battle of Festubert on May 24, 1916, and after a long period in hospital was invalided to Canada in November of the same year.

Mr. Hart was one of the first to return to Canada and he has been tireless in his efforts to assist the dependents of fallen sailors and soldiers, and returned men generally. His strong advocacy of increased pensions for dependents and financial assistance for the men who, in the early days were discharged without any provision for the period of unemployment, had due effect with the Parliamentary Committee which sat at Toronto in 1917; it resulted in materially increased pensions and the payment of three months' post-discharge pay—subsequently increased to from four to six months, dependent upon length of service.

Founder of G. W. V. A.

The first association of returned men of the Great War in Canada, was organized in Victoria by Mr. Hart, in May, 1916, and from that small beginning the G. W. V. A. of Canada has grown. He has been actively connected with the local branch since its inception and has used all the ability at his command to good purpose in drawing attention to unsatisfactory conditions and pointing out the remedy. Following his resignation from the Bureau of Information in October, 1918, he resumed journalistic work, filling the position of Island Editor of the B. C. Veterans' Weekly, the official organ of the G. W. V. A.

RED TROOPS MOVING NOW TOWARD REAR OF DEFENCE OF WARSAW

als across the Polish frontiers without Polish visa or passports.

Obnoxious.

The provision for placards in the portion of Poland formerly belonging to Russia, and the stipulation that the Bolsheviks be granted permission to disseminate propaganda in that territory were viewed by officials here as likely to be obnoxious to the Poles. The granting of such demands would, officials here said, result in the loss to the Warsaw Government of Russian Poland, for all Polish national feeling in that region, it was considered, would be beaten out by the Bolshevik propaganda. Officials were inclined to believe that the peace terms to be submitted at Minsk will be more severe than those prepared for the Barminevitch conference, which ended abruptly when the Polish armistice emissaries replied they had no authority to conclude peace.

Britain and Soviet.

Paris, Aug. 14.—A Bolshevik dispatch received here from Moscow last evening stated conditions which it said Great Britain had stipulated as a basis for recognition of the Russian Soviet Government. Cessation of hostilities was said to be the first condition, while the others were repatriation of prisoners, an understanding concerning reparations for damage to property of private citizens, and acceptance by Great Britain of the Russian conditions concerning resumption of commercial relations between the two countries.

M. Tchitcherin, Bolshevik Foreign Minister, the dispatch added, had advised Leo Kamenoff at London that the Moscow Government considered these conditions the basis for peace negotiations between Russia and Great Britain.

pany was not making quite as large a profit as that. The dealers declared that there were a large number of expenses which had to be borne, thus raising the overhead costs. The statements made by Mr. Ferguson at yesterday's session concerning the profits he had made while in the coal business, it was declared, did not convey a proper idea of the real conditions. Cost of management, it was asserted, had to be taken into consideration, while wharfage charges were very high. Indeed, if the wharfage charges could be reduced, it was stated, it would be possible to reduce the price of coal about $1 a ton.

The dealers denied that they fixed the price of coal in the city, and that a combine existed for this purpose. Nor did any "gentlemen's agreement"

SAANICH TALKS OVER NEW BYLAWS

Water Measure Favored, But Sewer Extension Has Rough Going

Some parts of Saanich are so keen after water that they are paying fifteen cents a gallon for it. Councillor Clark told ratepayers at the Parish Hall, Cedar Hill, last night in urging them to vote for the bylaw to extend the water system through Gordon Head. He declared Gordon Head ratepayers would meet all their obligations.

Councillor Terrell asserted that the extension would pay big dividends and ratepayers would get back every cent they put into it.

After advocating the water extension, Reeve Watson urged people to vote for the sewer extension bylaw which also comes up on August 21. He said he would not care to be responsible for the future condition of the soil of Saanich if everybody goes on using septic tanks. He suggested that the money for the work might be raised through local loans. The Reeve pointed out, however, that the Government engineer said that the estimates for the work were too low by twenty-five per cent.

Councillor Dooley said that the sewer extensions would provide lots of work for many men. He said that unemployment conditions were very bad.

Ward Credit Misused.

H. E. Tanner of Ward Six charged that members of the Saanich council were luke-warm in their support of the sewer bylaw. He protested against the credit of the rural wards being pledged for improvements to inner-wards. He said that when inner wards want urban luxuries they should join the city. He declared that many farmers are facing blue ruin because of the non-equitable system of taxation. He called the sewer bylaw a confiscatory measure and said the average person would not be able to stand it.

Reeve Watson explained that property within the sewer districts would be confiscated first.

Councillor Clark said that the sewer bylaw would impose too heavy a burden on the people in the sewer district. He said the council should have given it more consideration.

School Trustee Holloway made a speech telling how there should be a general system of taxation readjustment before the bylaws are voted on.

There will be more open discussion of the bylaws at the meeting at the Tolmie School to-night.

CONVENTION OFF

Comrades of Great War Cannot Agree on Representation So Rally is Cancelled.

Comrades of the Great War are not going to hold a convention as announced some time ago, or at least they are not going to convene for some time yet.

This is announced following the failure of President MacNicol, of the Victoria organization, and others to settle representation troubles with Vancouver and North Vancouver associations of Comrades. The Mainland club wanted three delegates from the Mainland to one from the Island. President MacNicol declared that the Comrades were so strong in Victoria that they could not submit to being swamped so badly in the matter of delegates.

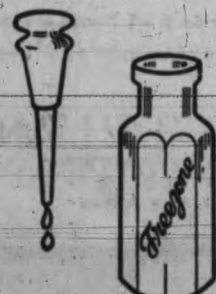

The three clubs will be given an opportunity to think over their troubles while the convention has been postponed indefinitely.

TO COWICHAN TO-MORROW.

The party of botanists under Dr. Fuller, who arrived yesterday afternoon, and are to-day participating in a field day with the Natural History Society here, will leave tomorrow for Duncan and will spend part of the day and on Monday as the guests of the Cowichan Naturalists. On Monday they will proceed to Port Alberni, paying a visit en route to Cameron Lake and Mt. Arrowmith. Sprout Lake will be visited, and from Nanaimo the party will cross to the Mainland en route to the Canadian Rockies.

TO-DAY'S BRIDAL PAIR HONEYMOON IN A SEAPLANE

Miss Jessie Kennedy, of Col-onist, Wed to H. S. Graves, of The Times

A most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Sam Jones Wednesday, when the Ladies' Bible Class of the Wilkinson Road Methodist Church entertained the members of the Sunday School and congregation. The early part of the evening was spent in playing games, after which a splendid musical programme was given. P. D. Hillis acting as chairman. Those taking part were Mrs. Perley, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Harry Hillis, Misses Barr and Jones, and Messrs. Williams and Pimlot. The president of the class, Mrs. Wilkinson, then read a most interesting class prophecy, after which Mrs. Percy Hillis read an address to the class teacher, Mrs. Allison, pressing the good wishes of the class on the occasion of her birthday. Mrs. Sam Jones then presented her with a beautiful set of French ivory on behalf of the class. The pianist struck a chord and all joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." After a few words from Mrs. Allison the very happy evening came to a close with the serving of ice cream and cake.

Guests at Brentwood Hotel include Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Clement, Vancouver, B. C.; St. E. Lamont and wife, Avonlea, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Capps, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. John A. Craig, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sylvester, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. J. Matchett and family, Seattle; Mrs. and Miss Iken, Seattle; Mrs. D. MacLeod and son, Calgary, Alta.; and Miss E. Webster, Vancouver.

A delightfully informal flannel dance was held at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, at "Uplands" last evening, about forty couples dancing to the music of Professor Heaton's orchestra. The reception rooms and supper tables were charmingly arranged with carnations, dahlias and geraniums from the Club gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Burnyeat announce the engagement of their daughter Marjorie Gladys to Alfred Caulfield Oshan, son of Dr. Beresford T. and Mrs. Oshan, of Los Angeles, Cal. formerly of Victoria, B. C. The wedding will take place at Los Angeles in September.

The sewing meetings of the Herbert Beaumont Boggs Chapter, I. O. D. E. will be resumed on Monday next, when the first meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Wilson, 1557 Yale Street, Oak Bay. It is hoped that as many members as possible will endeavor to attend.

Mrs. J. H. McClellan announces the engagement of her daughter Ethel, to William Bernard Adams, younger son of L. M. Adams, of London, England. The marriage will take place early in September.

Hon. S. F. and Mrs. Tolmie announce the engagement of their daughter Jean, to Major Leonard Robb Andrews, of Toronto, Ont. The marriage will take place on September 8.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ramsay, with their son and daughter and the Misses McRae compose a motor party from Edmonton touring the island, and registered at the Strathcona Hotel.

Mrs. T. J. Kernahan, of Winnipeg, and Mrs. G. D. McKee and two daughters, of Calgary, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dane, 1271 Mackenzie Street.

K. L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, and E. M. Dietzer and Mrs. Dietzer, of Kakama, are touring the island, and making the Dominion Hotel their headquarters.

Miss Sheila Russell came over from the Mainland this afternoon on a visit to Mrs. A. P. Proctor at the latter's summer home at Finerty Bay.

Miss Jennie M. Crabber and Miss F. L. Prentice, of Salt Lake City, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Beck, of Chicago, are guests at the Strathcona Hotel.

Mrs. W. F. Brougham came over to Victoria yesterday from Vancouver and will be the guest of Mrs. James Dunsen for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Parker, of Wetaakiwin, and A. E. Gould and J. Goyenlock, of Edmonton, Alberta, are staying at the Strathcona Hotel.

Mr. Justice Morrison, Mrs. Morrison, Miss Louise Morrison and Christopher Morrison, of Vancouver, were in the city yesterday.

Mrs. C. W. McMillan, of Calgary, visiting her sister, Mrs. Saunders, 1140 Burrard Avenue.

Miss Daisy Johnston, of this city, has been the guest of Mrs. S. C. Noble, Kitsilano, Vancouver, for the past week.

Mr. Mrs. and Miss Wyatt, of 2233 Powl Bay Road, will leave on the Prince Rupert for the East to-morrow morning.

Captain and Mrs. Sutherland, of Duncan, are visiting the city and staying at the Strathcona Hotel.

C. N. O'Neill and Mrs. O'Neill, of Duran, are among yesterday's arrivals at the Dominion Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Jukes, of Vancouver, formerly of Victoria, are visiting friends at Cowichan.

TO-DAY'S BRIDAL PAIR HONEYMOON IN A SEAPLANE

Miss Jessie Kennedy, of Col-onist, Wed to H. S. Graves, of The Times

A Boeing seaplane was the novel and up-to-date form of honeymoon conveyance chosen by two popular members of the journalistic profession, Miss Jessie Elizabeth Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kennedy, 94 George Road, and Herbert Sandham Graves, son of the late Dr. W. H. Graves, F. R. C. S., of Dublin, and Mrs. Graves, of Rothwell Street, Victoria, whose marriage took place this afternoon. The bride has been the social editor of The Daily Colonist for some years, while the bridegroom is a member of The Times editorial staff. He saw much service during the war as a flight commander in the Royal Air Force, and was one of the "originals" of the 16th Canadian Scottish. After transferring to the air branch of the service, he was attached for duty to General Allenby's army in Palestine.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Sippell, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Church, at the home of the bride's parents at 2:30 o'clock. The reception rooms were charmingly arranged for the nuptials, Shasta daisies, sweet peas and greenery being used with artistic effect, while in compliment to the bridegroom, the ceremony took place under a model aeroplane suspended from the ceiling in the drawing room. The bride, who was met by her father under a canopy of Shasta daisies and sweet peas at the foot of the stairway, looked girlishly pretty in her simple wedding robe of white satin de chene over a foundation of silver lace, with berthe of silver lace and graceful train of satin. She wore an embroidered veil of silk net and carried a lovely bouquet of pale pink rosebuds.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Fred Knight, was the matron-of-honor, attired in a delightful frock of pale pink georgette, silk embroidered, with becoming hat en suite, trimmed with French flowers. Miss Elsie Smith, the bridesmaid, wore a dainty frock of white net, be-ruffled in lavender and wore a foundation of pale pink taffeta, with picture hat of white georgette trimmed with lilies. Her bouquet was of pink and mauve sweet peas. The bridegroom, and his groomsmen, Harry Brown, who served as a flight-lieutenant with the bridegroom overseas, wore the full-dress uniform of the Royal Air Force. The mother of the bride was handsomely attired in rose-colored gown with blue voile with black hat trimmed with ostrich plumes, while the mother of the bridegroom wore black satin with smart little black toque.

The wedding march was played by Miss Ethel Johns, and during the ceremony Miss Kitty Palmer sang with much charm, "Love's Coronation." At the conclusion of the service, a delicious luncheon was served on the table being prettily adorned with Shasta daisies and sweet peas, while several model aeroplanes were suspended over the wedding-cake. Mrs. and Mr. Graves left later in a Boeing seaplane, piloted by Eddie Hubbard, of Seattle, for the Sound City, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride travelling in a navy blue tulle suit with close-fitting little hat embroidered in silver and chenille and blue veil. On their return they will take up their residence at 1701 Bushby Street.

PRETTY WEDDING AT

EMMANUEL CHURCH

Miss Leckie Became Bride of Fred C. Barker; Will Reside at Mission

The Emmanuel Baptist Church was the scene of a pretty ceremony on Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Minnie Leckie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Leckie, of San Juan Avenue, became the bride of Fred C. Barker, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Barker, of 312 Dallas Street. The Rev. William Stevenson, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride entered on the arm of her father as the organist, Miss Jessie Boyd, played the Wedding March. She wore a becoming gown of ivory charmeuse satin and georgette crepe and wore a long tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. Her shoulder bouquet was of carnations, sweet peas and fern. She was attended by one bridesmaid, her sister, Miss Rachel Leckie, a beauteous girl of 18, who wore a gown of navy blue satin charmeuse, with hat en suite, while the groom's pale pink charmeuse suit with embroidered georgette panels and a picture hat of georgette to match, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and fern. Miss Marie McCleave, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl in a dainty little frock of white embroidered silk. Joe Barker supported the bride in the bridegroom. The mother of the bride wore a handsome gown of navy blue satin charmeuse, with hat en suite, while the groom's pale pink charmeuse suit with hat to match. During the signing of the register, Miss Bina Brynjolfson sang very sweetly "O Promise Me."

After the ceremony, a delicious luncheon was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leckie, the three-tier wedding cake occupying the position of honor on the prettily decorated table. The ceremony at eight o'clock a reception was held, the house being artistically arranged with flowers for the occasion. The guests to the number of eighty were received by the bride couple under a marriage bell of moss, sweet peas and roses.

Among the numerous gifts received by the young couple was a chest from Malle's Ltd., where the bride has been employed for over three years. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace. The bridesmaid a pearl brooch, to the best man gold cuff links and to the flower girl a turquoise ring. Mr. and Mrs. Barker were guests of honor at the reception. The bride and groom will be travelling in a suit of green tricot with flesh-colored picture hat, trimmed with ostrich plumes. After their honeymoon they will make their home at Mission City.

PROVINCIAL HEALTH DEPARTMENT ON 'ACTIVE CAMPAIGN'

Establishes Health Centres and Much-needed Nurses in Outlying Districts

MANY ORGANIZATIONS ARE CO-OPERATING

For many years there has been a great need of trained nurses in the outlying districts, and for the past year the Department of Health has been quietly working along lines which would permit of meeting the need. The plan followed has been to encourage the establishment of Health Centres in the various parts of the Province.

University Course
The Women's Institutes, through the agency of the Secretary of the Advisory Board, and the Victorian Order of Nurses, representatives of the Health Department, Municipal Councils, various Women's organizations, and latterly the Red Cross have taken an active interest in the work.

The plan is, according to a statement made by the Hon. J. D. MacLennan, this morning to have a trained nurse, with special knowledge of Public Health Nursing, placed in such localities as are not conveniently situated to medical and nursing service.

The training is given voluntarily by the B. C. University, the first University in Canada to establish a faculty of nursing, in connection with which is a special course on Public Health Nursing. The practical part of the course is carried on in Vancouver and Saanich under the supervision of the Victorian Order of Nurses, who for the past eighteen months have been working in co-operation with the Provincial Board of Health.

Red Cross Assists

The Red Cross has endowed the chair of Public Health in the University of British Columbia for three years. The Provincial Red Cross Society is carrying out the peace time programme, adopted by the International Red Cross Society at its meeting at Cannes, of "volving their energies to Health work and are working as an active auxiliary of the Provincial Board of Health. They are rendering financial assistance when required towards the establishment of Health Centres, and the assistance given to Soldier Settlements is being made a special feature of their work. The work undertaken by the Red Cross is a transference of their war time activities to a work of a war against disease, promotion of better living conditions, the education, through the Public Health Nurse, of the people along health lines, and especially emphasizing the importance of the prevention of disease, and giving special prominence to the care of the school children, in order that they may grow up physically able to have an equal chance in the competition of life.

The placing of the nurses depends on the activity of the local organizations of the localities desiring such service, but no nurse is sent to a district without the sanction of the Provincial Health Department. The nurses are supplied financially by local effort with the assistance of the Red Cross.

The Health Department of the Provincial Government made a contribution to the centre at Saanich, return for which this institution trains the future health nurses in field. At the present time there are ten such nurses in training who will be placed as local demands warrant.

A Health Centre

A Health Centre is an institution from which, through the medium of specially trained nurses, information is given and assistance rendered with reference to the following:

- (a) Pre-natal instruction to mothers.
- (b) Maternity Nursing.
- (c) Child welfare work.
- (d) Follow up work in connection with Medical Inspection of schools.
- (e) Contagious and infectious diseases.

Maternity nursing is carried on principally in the homes of the poor. The prospective mother is taught how to care for her health, she is encouraged to visit the Health Centre where she can get reliable service. The young mother is taught how to care for herself and her infant child. The nurse teaches by actual demonstration at the bedside the woman in attendance how to care for the mother and her baby.

In Child Welfare work, the mother is taught and shown:

- (a) How to feed her children.
- (b) How to prepare the food if child is being fed artificially.
- (c) The proper care and routine treatment for the care of the child.
- (d) How to follow the instructions of the Doctor in the care of children that are below normal in size and weight, the two best evidences of a lack of proper development. In short the mother is given hints regarding the proper care of the child in its life and its activity.

Inspection of Schools

For some time it has been felt that the Province is not getting the full benefit from the expenditure made in connection with the inspection of schools.

The Public Health nurse will see that the treatment advocated is carried out; will visit the school at frequent intervals, and will make arrangements by which minor operations can be performed free in the case of indigent parents.

Prevention of the spread of contagious and infectious diseases is the great endeavor of the Public Health Nurse under this phase of the Cent's activities. The value of isolation and the carrying out of the instructions of the medical man is emphasized.

Prevention of disease is the key-note of the treatment advocated is carried out; will visit the school at frequent intervals, and will make arrangements by which minor operations can be performed free in the case of indigent parents.

POPULAR GIRL CONTEST IS PLANNED

Made-in-Victoria Week to Be Started With Monster
Picnic

A popular girl contest open only to native daughters is to be held in connection with Made-in-Victoria Week, September 6 to 11. This was announced to-day by the Victoria and Island Development Association committee in charge of the event, headed by J. C. MacDonald.

The contest is to be run in such a way as to not only arouse keen competition among the various candidates and their supporters but also sustain interest in the home product idea all through the week.

Printed Cards. A large number of specially printed cards are now being printed for distribution at the offices of the Victoria and Island Development Association. These cards, like the form of pledges and those who sign agree to give made-in-Victoria goods the preference over everything else in their purchases during Made-in-Victoria Week. The popular girl candidates and their friends will be supplied with these cards and a general canvass of the city will begin. Every signed pledge card is good for one vote, so that the girl who is able to obtain the most signatures for the Made-in-Victoria campaign has the most votes under control.

Judging from the interest already shown in the competition there is going to be intense rivalry among the contestants. It is probable that a large number of Victoria industrial concerns will enter candidates of their own, although there will be many girls offering themselves independently. The contest is open to both married and unmarried, the only qualification being that the candidate must be a native of Victoria.

Complete details of the campaign will probably be worked out by the committee by Monday, but in the meantime candidates are asked to give their names and addresses to the office of the Victoria and Island Development Association. Pledge cards will be ready for distribution next week.

Want More Slogans. Another thing that is stirring up a lot of interest in the Made-in-Victoria movement is the slogan contest. A great many suggestions have already been sent in and some of them are said to be remarkably clever. They will be used in special advertising during Made-in-Victoria Week. The committee wants as wide a choice as possible and slogans will be accepted next week. Slogan writers are asked to send in their contributions as early as possible, however, as all advertising must be prepared considerably in advance of the festival.

Made-in-Victoria Week will be ushered in with a monster picnic at Curtis Point on Victoria Arm, Labor Day, September 6. Premier Oliver or the Lieut.-Governor and Mayor Porter will speak, and there will be a musical programme furnished by the Arion Club and other artists, followed by a community sing, bonfire and other features. During the afternoon there will be a carnival of land and water sports at the Gorge. During the week plans for sustaining interest in the movement will be carried out and the climax will be reached Saturday night with a street dance.

GOOD DEMAND FOR LABOR IN BOUNDARY

Local Labor Bureau Finds
Considerable Call From Outside

The Employment Service of Canada, Victoria office, reports through Manager S. H. Creech for the week ending August 14 rather a busy week, although in the city industry is very quiet, with the result that the applicants registered for work far exceed the vacancies registered by the employers within the city. The situation at other points, however, are quite different.

Registered vacancies transferred to this office and not yet filled are as follows:

Molson, Wash. (Canadian side)—Saw mill laborers, $4.75, 8 hours. Board, $1.50.

Trail, B. C.—Thirty laborers, $4.20, 8 hours. Board, $45 per month.

Grand Forks, B. C.—Ten single jack miners, $5 day, 8 hours. Four muckers, $4.50. Board, $1.20.

Trail, B. C.—Twenty carpenters, repair and construction work around smelter, $5.55, 8 hours. Board, $40.

Salmo, B. C.—Ten machine miners, $6, 8 hours. Board, $1.25.

Exshaw, Alta.—Thirty laborers, 50c per hour; 3 packers, 50c per hour. This work is for a cement company. Board and room $10.75 per week.

Baine Lake, B. C.—Eight mill laborers, 53 to 55 cents per hour. One blacksmith, $1.50.

Kimberly, B. C.—Twenty muckers, $4.60 per day. Board, $1.25.

During the week the employment service has been successful in placing 25 male and 16 female applicants in permanent employment, and 24 male and 20 female applicants in casual employment. It has also placed 57 farm hands in employment harvesting in Alberta.

SKETCH PLAN OF SAANICH SEWERAGE SCHEME

The above map shows the suburban area of Wards Two and Seven, Saanich, which it is proposed to sewer at an ultimate cost of $270,000. The necessary authority will be sought by by-law next Saturday.

when the measure will be submitted to the electors in conjunction with a waterworks by-law for $200,000. The immediate expenditure contemplated is $241,000 on sewers, plus a sum due to the City of Victoria, being a percentage addition for the enlargement of the North West sewer to carry Saanich sewage to the outfall at Macaulay point. The total thus proposed to be authorized for expenditure by the present council, will be the sum of $300,000.

The area shown in the map is about 880 acres, a small fraction of the municipal area, but comprising a large proportion of the resident population, being practically suburban, and built-up throughout.

PROVINCIAL BRANCH OF V. O. N. FORMED

Important Step in Public Health Nursing Taken at Meeting To-day

Another step forward in the establishment of a public health nursing service in the Province was taken this morning at a meeting called for the formal inauguration of a Provincial branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses. The meeting was held in the Parliament Buildings, with Mrs. R. S. Day in the chair, and those attending were Dr. H. E. Young, Provincial Health Officer; Dr. M. T. MacEachern, Superintendent of the Vancouver General Hospital; Miss R. N. Cole, Superintendent of the Training School, Vancouver; Miss Johns, Director of Public Health Nursing of the University of B. C.; Mrs. Rose, President, Vancouver Branch, V. O. N.; Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, President, Saanich Branch, V. O. N.; Mrs. Reed, President, New Westminster Branch, V. O. N.; Mrs. Goulding, President, Victoria Branch, V. O. N.; Dr. A. G. Price, City Health Officer; Miss Forsyth, H. Charlesworth, Mrs. Nell, of Colwood, and Miss McNair, V. O. N.

Miss Cole made the opening address, pointing out the necessity of a provincial branch for the proper coordination of the work of the Order, after which Dr. Young spoke on the value of post-graduate training in public health for nurses who contemplate taking up this branch of the work, dealing at length with the endorsement by the Red Cross of the chair of nursing at the University. The subject was carried further by Dr. MacEachern whose remarks bore concerned chiefly with the relationship of the proposed branch and the University.

Other speakers were Mrs. Rose, Mrs. MacLachlan. The formal inauguration of the branch with election of officers is being proceeded with at the afternoon session.

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 14.—Four persons were seriously and several slightly injured when the Grand Trunk morning train from Portland, Maine, for Montreal, ran into a washout near Coaticook, Que. The heavy rain of the early morning washed out the road bed at one of the culverts, the engine of the train leaving the tracks. That there was not a serious loss of life is probably due to the fact that the engine detached itself from the balance of the train, which remained on the tracks. The list of injured includes Dr. C. A. Tremblay, Coaticook, Que., severely cut and bruised; Mrs. W. P. Pigeon, Montreal, severe bruises and suffering from shock; Rose Gavoli, Walton, Mass., severely injured about the legs; Miss Coulard, Lewiston, Maine, bruised and suffering from shock.

OPPORTUNITY FOR POULTRY FANCIERS

Chicken Culling Contest at Willows Is Set For Tuesday Evening

The poultry breeders of the district will have a first-class chance to exhibit their skill at selecting and culling the layers from the non-layers at a public contest which will take place at the Provincial Government egg-laying contest in the exhibition grounds at Willows on Tuesday evening, commencing promptly at 7 o'clock. The contest buildings are located at the back of the grounds immediately north of the horse-show building. The fowls at the egg-laying contest are now entering the eleventh month of the international competition, and each bird has been trap-nested from the start those selected for the culling contest will be chosen from among the high, medium and poor layers. Due to much publicity in the poultry and agricultural journals lately the great majority of poultry breeders are deeply interested in the new methods of culling, and whereby the poor layers are detected and removed from the flocks.

Many old poultry breeders have used so-called "secret" systems for years, alleging that they are able to tell their poor layers at a glance. Some claim that hens with long claws are poor layers; others that the last hene to go to roost at night are the best layers. Many other systems are in vogue. All attending at the Willows will have a chance of demonstrating their theories and systems.

The demonstration will be under the auspices of the Poultry Division of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, with J. R. Terry in charge. Those attending are asked to be on the grounds promptly at 7 o'clock p. m.

That there was not a serious loss of life is probably due to the fact that the engine detached itself from the balance of the train, which remained on the tracks. The list of injured includes Dr. C. A. Tremblay, Coaticook, Que., severely cut and bruised; Mrs. W. P. Pigeon, Montreal, severe bruises and suffering from shock; Rose Gavoli, Walton, Mass., severely injured about the legs; Miss Coulard, Lewiston, Maine, bruised and suffering from shock.

VANCOUVER ISLAND NEWS

On Valdez Island.
Courtesy: Mining is causing a little excitement on Valdez Island. New discoveries have been made that give great promise. Messrs. Buker and Teeter are sinking a working shaft on their "Donn" group. This property looks good, carrying high values in gold and copper. It is situated within a mile of Heriot Bay.

Messrs. Ross and Hamilton have opened a fine outcrop on the west side of the island. They are building a road and getting in supplies in view of doing much development during the coming winter.

The Valdez Island Mining Company are operating their Gowlland Harbor property. They will resume shipping immediately.—Comox Argus.

WOMAN TAKES RANCH

Mrs. Edith Osborne Applies For Canadian Citizenship to Extend Land Holdings in Omineca.

Mrs. Edith Osborne, who was Miss Bonney, of Amity, Maine, before she was married, applied at Judge Lampman's court to-day to become a Canadian. She is going to take up large tracts of land in the Omineca district. She was born in 1881. Mrs. Osborne came to this country in June, 1914, from Seattle. With her husband she went to Colley Mount, Francis Lake, where she has been ranching since. So impressed is she with the advantages of the country that she has decided to settle permanently and extend her activities. She cannot take over large land holdings advantageously unless she is naturalized.

Earl Osborne, her husband, is going north to assist his wife in her ventures. Judge Lampman is to hear the application in public court on December 6.

Hunting Down the "Shinner"

By a British Officer, in The London Express.

A couple of days ago I returned to London from Tipperary, where I was on military duty. A real live policeman held up my taxicab in Piccadilly. Instinctively I frowned, but the next moment realized that I was once more in the land of law and order.

Three nights ago I had sent six men and a corporal—complete with tin hats, rifles, bayonets and a lorry—to see two policemen safely home. A few weeks before that I had seen the racecourse of Tipperary cleared and the whole of the traffic regulated, not by such men as this London Bobby, but by a squad of Sinn Fein police, sporting their white arm bands.

And they managed it well, too. Those are the things that are beginning to tell in Ireland now. The average Irishman (assuming that there is such a person) does not want separation from England, nor does he want a Republic. He merely wants to be governed. I am absolutely convinced of that from talking not only to many Irishmen but to Irish girls as well.

One of these college shock her recs at me and demanded, "What did 'Cromwell' do to the Irish people?" I said I didn't know, but would be glad to learn from her. The young lady's only reply was that I should be ashamed of my ignorance, but I am fairly certain that she had not the remotest idea herself of Cromwell's alleged crimes.

British Protection.

The chief point about it all is, however, if the British Government cannot give the Irish protection and order the people are going to turn to Sinn Fein. The Irish were tremendously impressed by the sight I have described, when the Sinn Fein police regulated traffic while the R.I.C. refused to leave their barracks. I do not for a moment blame the R.I.C.—when they are boycotted by the army and sniped by night it is a wonder that their moral is not completely shattered.

The Sinn Fein's leaders have an eye to creating favorable public opinion. For instance, on several occasions they have captured ordinary criminals operating under the guise of Sinn Fein, and have tried and sentenced them.

On every side one finds Sinn Fein activity. During my tour of duty I was invited to ten at the house of a

City Council Invests

Port Alberni.—The City Council has decided to invest $4,000 of the municipal sinking fund in bonds of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway company. The bonds are being bought at 75 cent on the dollar and bear four and a half per cent which makes the total rate of interest on the investment six and two-thirds per cent. The bonds mature in 1942 the year as the waterworks debentures of ten city. Three thousand dollars will also be taken from the sinking fund to buy $3,000 worth of Victory bonds through the agency of Pemberton & Son, Victoria.

Branch at Wellington

Nanaimo.—Members of the Nanaimo branch of the W.A.C.T.U. have organized a branch at Wellington with the following officers: Mrs. Biggs, President. Mrs. Bennett, Vice-President. Mrs. Bennett, Cor. Secy. Mrs. Gilmore, Treasurer. Mrs. Maxey, Rec. Secy.

Mrs. Irvine, organizing secretary, conducted the service. Mrs. Jessop presided. The meeting was a very interesting one, after which the work of the movement was explained by Mrs. Irvine.

Mrs. J. Dewar, of Wellington gave a short address on the British Women's Temperance Union, of which she is a charter member. New members were then pledged and enrolled.

Mrs. Priestly planned on the white bows. Mrs. J. Wilson read the constitution. During the evening several songs were rendered and the Crusade song was sung in unison.

Mrs. McMillan closed the meeting with prayer.

loyalist, and on arriving found my hostess in an apron. She told me that her maid had left, having had an anonymous letter stating that her mistress was giving tea on a certain date to some officers, and that if she served a soldier or a police officer with a single cup of tea she would be ostracized.

The ordinary Irishman is not a Sinn Feiner by nature. He does not delight in the cold-blooded murders perpetrated in the name of the Republic. If he turns into a "Shinner" it is because he thinks he will either get a hard luck story of how they had been discharged from the Army and could not get work. They are spies, stationed there for the express purpose of watching the camp and reporting movements.

Spies.

The Sinn Fein spy system is excellent. The movement of the military are watched night and day. Hanging round every military barracks and encampment are loafers who spend their time leaning against the wall, smoking and playing pitch and toss, and if you speak to them, as I did, they will probably tell you a hard luck story of how they had been discharged from the Army and could not get work. They are spies, stationed there for the express purpose of watching the camp and reporting movements.

One day I was passing a certain camp as a patrol was going out. I noticed a man who had been apparently sending his motorcycle on the roadside, jump on it and tear off ahead of them to warn the countryside of their approach.

The Sinn Fein policy at first was to put down the existing authority. By their system of murders they hoped to destroy completely the moral of the police force and render it ineffective. This they very nearly succeeded in doing, and it was only the intervention of the military that prevented such a catastrophe happening a few weeks ago.

Their policy now, as they cannot destroy the British Army, is to hold it up to ridicule—by ambushing patrols and seizing their rifles, by shameful feint attacks which draw the military away while a raid takes place on the police barracks, and by such incidents as the recent disappearing in broad daylight of a great guard in Dublin, they hope to make the Army the laughing-stock of the whole world.

ASIA WILL ARRIVE EARLY ON MONDAY

C.P.O.S. Liner Making Customary Fine Passage; Tahiti From Australia

Commander A. J. Halley, R. N. R., of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services liner Empress of Asia, has reported by wireless that he expects to bring his ship to quarantine at daybreak on Monday. The Empress of Asia sailed from Yokohama last Saturday afternoon and she is maintaining her customary train-time schedule across the intervening 4,200 miles of ocean.

The big liner has some 400 passengers in the saloon and is also bringing in 150 British bluejackets bound from the Hongkong station to England. The cargo includes several hundred tons of raw silk.

Tahiti On Tuesday

Another big liner due in port early next week is the Tahiti, of the Canadian-Australian fleet, which is now posted to arrive on Tuesday. In his last message Captain Todd stated that he expected to reach Victoria on the afternoon of August 17. Sir Ronald and Lady Munro-Ferguson are passengers by the Tahiti en route from Australia to England. Sir Ronald is the retiring Governor-General of the Australian Commonwealth.

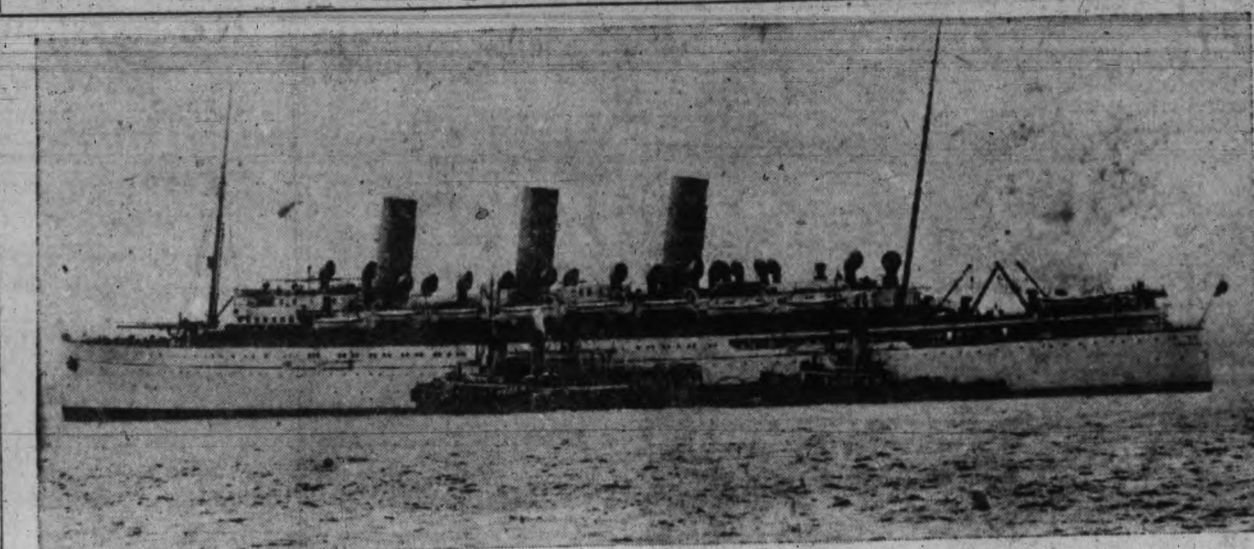

The Tahiti is replacing the liner Makura while that vessel is being converted into an oil burner at San Francisco. She will make another round voyage before the Makura is ready to resume.

MADE DARING CRUISE IN NORTHERN WATERS

John Borden, Who Outfitted Arctic Expedition, Again on Coast

John Borden, American capitalist and explorer, of Chicago, accompanied by his wife and children, W. H. Stillwell, James R. Walker, and Jack Campbell, passed through Vancouver yesterday in the private car "Republic," en route to Lake Louise, Banff and Eastern Canada. The party came west by way of Montana and the Glacier National Park. Mr. Borden's name will doubtless recall to many old-timers of the Pacific coast, and particularly to seafaring men of the north, an adventure of his in 1913, which nearly proved the termination of the careers of himself and party. In that year he outfitted an Arctic expedition and with himself and a few of his friends, sailed from San Francisco in the schooner "Great Bear," to try and work around Point Barrow through the Behring Straits and east to Herschel Island, from whence they planned to follow up the drift route taken by Hansen and other Arctic explorers. The "Great Bear" came to grief, however, and landed up a wreck on St. Matthew's Island, a small barren piece of land north of the Aleutians in the Behring Sea. For two weeks the castaways lived on the island, and had almost abandoned themselves to a death by slow starvation when a United States revenue cutter cruising in this vicinity happened to land and pick them up, landing them at Nome, from whence they took a steamer back to civilization. Mr. Borden has followed the sea a good deal of his life, and it remains one of his chief interests. During the war he was a lieutenant-commander in the United States navy, and but recently resigned his post. He has owned yachts of various sorts, but disposed of his last one in Europe. "I have always been attracted by the north," said Mr. Borden, and added that he intended to outfit another expedition which he hoped would not result so disastrously. By profession he is a barrister, as was his father and grandfather before him, but he does not confine himself to his practice. Large interests which he holds in various concerns occupy a good deal of his time.

Women Signed On Vessel To Reach Home In States

San Juan, P. R., Aug. 14.—(Associated Press).—When the schooner Cornell P. White arrives at Baltimore, Md., it will lose two women members of its crew, Miss Georgiella Musser, of Denver, Col., and Miss Jane Waters, of Bonner Springs, Kansas, pursuer and assistant pursuer, respectively, who, until recently, were school teachers in Porto Rico. The difficulty of obtaining passage on any of the passenger ships, together with desire for adventure, were the reasons given by friends of the Cornell P. White. They believed they would arrive home safely, sooner or later, if they went on a schooner, while there seemed to be no end of uncertainty when they could get away if they waited for a regular passenger ship. So, after much persuasion, the skipper of the Cornell P. White, who has a daughter of his own in Baltimore, agreed to take them.

CARONIA'S FAST RUN

SHIPBUILDING COSTS IMPERIL INDUSTRY

British Shipowners Said to Be Considering Further Cancellation of Orders

Montreal, Aug. 14.—A London cable to The Montreal Star says: "The Liverpool shipping correspondent of The Times says in a special dispatch that the number of shipbuilding contracts which already have been cancelled may be materially increased soon, because a number of shipowners are seriously considering the cancellation of orders. It is estimated that the tonnage now under construction will cost far more than exactly similar tonnage cost a few months ago. "As the freight market continues to weaken, it has become a serious question as to whether shipping units built at such high cost can possibly be made to pay profits to owners through future operation. It is considered entirely probable that the heads of the leading shipping firms fully realize the serious situation confronting shipowners, but they appear to be helpless to prevent the continued rise in costs which are due to the increased wages paid the shipyard workers and the higher prices of materials. Since the signing of the armistice, virtually all of the contracts placed with the British shipyards have been on a sliding scale, so that the builders were either assured of a certain percentage above the cost or they agreed to build at a certain figure with the stipulation that any increases in the cost of labor and materials above the costs at the time of signing the contracts would be met by the shipowners. As the result of these agreements, the shoulders of the shipowners, and not on the shipbuilders. During the last six months the market value of a ready-made freighter of 7,500 tons, gross freighter has depreciated more than 25 per cent."

BOILERS REPAIRED CROSSING ATLANTIC

American Steamship Lewiston Had Series of Misfortunes on Voyage

Halifax, Aug. 14.—After experiencing boiler tube trouble practically the whole way across the Atlantic, the American steamer Lewiston, from Cherbourg, put in here today. "When in Mid-Atlantic the boilers became so bad that the captain ordered the fires put out, and for two days the ship drifted while the engineers worked at the tubes. When six hundred miles from Halifax the same operation had to be repeated. From then until the ship reached port only slow progress was made."

LIBELED SCHOONER SOLD AT AUCTION

Heaviest Claimant Against Bloating Successful Bidder at Seattle Sale

Seattle, Aug. 14.—The wooden sailing schooner Blatind, now lying in Seattle harbor, was sold to the Scandinavian American Bank for $109,000 at a public auction held yesterday on the Third Avenue steps of the post-office building in accordance with an order entered by the Federal Court in libel proceedings against the vessel. The bank, whose bid was the largest of several made, filed the heaviest claim against the Blatind in the sum of $143,879, which represented a loan to the owners of the boat. The 12 claims in the libel action totaled $173,419.52. The schooner was built in Seattle for the American Motor Schooner Company of New York, a subsidiary of the Grain Interests of Norway, and was launched October 3, 1919. Following her completion she was chartered by F. Griffin to carry lumber from British Columbia to Africa. While efforts were being made to get the schooner to her berth in British Columbia the Winslow Marine Railway & Shipbuilding Company started libel proceedings to collect a bill of $694.03 for services performed in painting and docking the schooner. Eleven intervenors filed claims and as a result the Blatind failed to leave the harbor. United States Marshal John M. Boyle acted in the capacity of auctioneer in the sale of the schooner.

NAVAL LADS STAGE SERIES OF SPORTS

Land and Water Events Feature This Afternoon at Gorge Encampment

Substitution of a series of sport events for the usual drill manoeuvres is a feature of the programme this afternoon at the Gorge encampment of the Royal Naval Brigade. The sports programme, comprising a 100 yards dash, three-legged race, wheelbarrow race, tug-of-war, neat diving, high diving and a 50 yards swimming sprint, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, before a large and interested body of citizens responding to the open invitation to visit the naval camp at Rockside Farm on the Gorge Road. The embryo seamen were entertained last night by several members of the Army and Navy Veterans with a programme of songs and monologues. The directors of the entertainment were H. J. Young, secretary of the Army and Navy Veterans, and Ernie Down, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Others contributing to the programme were Mr. Ernie Down, Sam Doncaster, F. T. Tibbitt, B. Cooney, C. Askey, L. McLeod Gould, Tom Obee and F. B. Weir, Scottish vocalist. Mr. Bowley-Turner acted as accompanist. With the termination of the sport events this afternoon the boys will be taken on a launch trip up the Gorge. To-morrow the naval cadets will be the guests of the Victoria Rotary Club on an automobile drive into the country, and on returning will be entertained at the St. Charles Street home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bushby. Mr. Bushby has worked energetically in the interest of the Royal Naval Brigade, and it is largely due to his efforts that the local organization has reached its present stage of efficiency.

YACHT CLUB CRUISE TO GARRISON BAY

Now that a very successful yachting season is drawing to a close, the members are arranging a club cruise to the land-locked waters of Garrison Bay. Boats will leave the harbor on the afternoon of Saturday, August 21, and rendezvous in the historic harbor at the north end of San Juan Island, where it is hoped that country members from Cowichan and other points will meet them and join in the programme to be provided. As this is the first cruise of its kind that the club has undertaken for a number of years, ladies have not been invited to join.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the house where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SHINGOLEEN

"A Bapco Product"

Just Now Is the Best Time of the Year in which to Paint Shingles.

Shingles are now drier than at any other time of the year, and are consequently in the best possible condition to thoroughly absorb the preserving oils contained in SHINGOLEEN. In addition to these penetrating oils SHINGOLEEN contains heavier oils which remain on the surface of the shingle, ensuring absolute surface protection and forming a medium which binds the color pigments, making them permanent and clear. Refuse all substitutes.

BRIEF LOCALS

Canadian Machine Gun Brigade.—District orders announce an appointment to the Eleventh Brigade as follows: To be provisional major, James Sweet Hoddings.

Crusaders' Glass.—The Crusaders' Glass of the Centennial Church will meet to-morrow at 2:30 o'clock to hear R. J. Ferris.

Have Returned Home.—Rev. and Mrs. Dr. Areshman and their two sons, of Seattle, have returned after spending a few days in this city at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Balser, 1019 Empress Avenue.

Nanaimo Judge Coming.—Judge Barker of Nanaimo will preside at the County Court Chambers here on August 19. It was announced to-day by Oswald Barton, registrar. The Nanaimo judge is taking charge here because of the absence in the East of Judge Lampan. Next Thursday will be the last County Court Chambers during vacation.

Assault Case.—The case of James Black, charged with indecent assault upon a female, was remanded by Justice of the Peace W. W. Northcott, who sat in the Police Court this morning in the absence of Magistrate Jay.

Have Not Caught Fugitive.—Following his escape from City Police Headquarters yesterday Walter Paucett, drug dealer, is still at large. Search for him having proved fruitless. Paucett was a "trustee" at the time of his escape from the Detective Department where he was engaged in sweeping. He was detained in Victoria, as the Oakalla Prison Farm authorities refuse to take prisoners now on account of the fact that the Farm is quarantined.

Queen Alexandra Review.—The last regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Review W. B. A. proved a most interesting one. Several candidates were initiated and plans for continuing the marathon contest were discussed. Committees were appointed to carry on arrangements for the sale of work to be held in the early autumn. The annual picnic is being held on Wednesday next at the Summer home of Mrs. Ball, Cordova Bay. Tea, sugar and milk are being provided by the hostess. The majority of the members will go by the train leaving Point Ellice bridge at 1:45 p.m. Members asked to bring their families and friends.

Visit Mill District.—Before hearing the representatives of lumbermen and Rock Bay residents on the "smoke nuisance" question yesterday afternoon members of the City Council journeyed to the "factory district" to see for themselves whether the people living there were suffering from the operations of the sawmills. Members of the party state that they were amazed at the amount of charred sawdust which is being cast by the mill burners in the district. On the account, when the matter comes before the Council for final decision it appears very doubtful now whether the aldermen who favor making the Smoke Nuisance Bylaw inoperative in the mill district could secure the support of a majority of their colleagues.

Liberty League Busy.—Members of the Liberty League at the Belmont House last night talked over plans for defeating prohibition at the plebiscite this Fall. Other plans will be considered during the next few days to be discussed at another meeting of the League next Thursday at the Belmont House.

No Council Meeting.—There will be no meeting of the City Council Monday, as the Council is continuing its practice of meeting only once in every two weeks.

For weeks the daily total has not dropped below 100 a day. It runs as high as 136, with a daily average of 125. The rush for information is pretty well distributed over the whole day.

Persons who want the most information are motorists, who want to know all about the highways up the Island, hotels, camping spots and steamship connections.

Hundreds of persons every week now call at the bureau just before leaving the city to get illustrated literature to mail to friends back home to let them know what a fine time we've had and kind of make the folks wish they were also here with us.

A SUGGESTION.

To the Editor.—It is on record at the City Hall that the Council are unable to provide funds for necessary repairs to the public bathhouse near the Gorge Bridge, which building is getting into a very dilapidated condition. The public bathhouse is in an ideal location and is used more than all the other bathhouses on the Gorge by the citizens, but to my personal knowledge they are disinclined to know that $100 was donated to a private club to promote a swimming gala, and it is the opinion of many that if this money had been spent on necessary repairs to the building it would be an advertisement and an asset to the city.

I wish to suggest through your columns that half of the profits (up to $100) from the said gala be handed to the City Council to be applied towards the expenditure in making the public bathhouse more in keeping with its beautiful surroundings.

MORE PROPERTY FOR RURAL HOMES

Gordon Head Sought By Suburbanites; New City Building

Demand for small suburban properties for fruit farms in the famous Gordon Head District is resulting in the subdivision of two properties on the Gordon Head Road, near Arbutus Road.

Of the big Rithet subdivision at Glanford and Sanich Road, John Greenwood, nurseryman and fruit farmer, has just taken a block. M. A. McKinty and John Bryden are also opening up small farms there.

Application for water extensions for these properties has just been made so that purchasers may have urban conveniences.

The building of the new homes in the city was commenced this week by G. W. Haskin, at 1655 Hollywood Crescent, and J. Singh on Mars Street. The Hoskin house is to be part of a novel design with a large quantity of tile used in the exterior finish.

H. J. Scott has started additions to his home at 1035 Cringwood. These additions will greatly enlarge the size of the house in conformity with Mr. Scott's needs.

Other building operations were commenced this week by Mrs. Mercer at 1118 Fairfield Road, and M. R. Todd, at 1819 Stanley Avenue.

MOTOR SHOW COMING DURING FAIR WEEK

But Members of Trade Here Want Lots of Room For Adequate Showing

Victoria is to have its great automobile show at the time of the Victoria Fall Fair, September 20-25. This week decided at last night's meeting of the automobile section of the Board of Trade, Carleton H. Willis, R. A. Playfair, H. A. Davis and Bill Bayley have been put in charge of the show. They are working now on securing adequate accommodations.

Those who have been canvassing the situation among the trade here fear that the space available at the Willows will not be large enough for the demands of the automobile trade.

Discolored or Spotted Skin Easily Peeled Off

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which most skins are so subject at this season may readily be gotten rid of. Ordinary mercurized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring, and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the discolored skin. You need not get more than an ounce of the wax from your druggist. There's no more effective way of banishing tan, freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process itself doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and you soon acquire a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered azaxole, one ounce, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Rubbing the face with this produces a truly marvellous transformation.

The Spirit of The Mutual

THE spirit of the Mutual is reflected in the well-known slogan of the company—"we aim to furnish the largest amount of sound life insurance for the least possible outlay."

The spirit of the Mutual is therefore the spirit of public service, and to achieve its purpose, much unselfish effort and even of sacrifice has gone into the building up of the organization. The good of the many, not personal profit, is the secret of the wonderful success of the Mutual of Canada.

To see such an altruistic institution as the Mutual Life of Canada planted and growing, and year by year widening the area of its protecting branches is the motive of the leaders of the company.

In the last five years the business of the company has doubled; the next five will probably see a similar development. Fifty years of Public Service have revealed to the people of Canada the spirit of the Mutual which is the spirit of co-operative service.

Be a Mutualist!

A WOMAN WHO HELPS WOMEN

I know your need for sympathy and health.

And the treatment that gives me health and strength, new interest in life, I want to pass on to you, that you too, may enjoy the priceless boon of health.

I am a woman.
What I have suffered has far better guide than any man's experience gained second-hand. Write and tell me how you feel and I will send you ten days' FREE trial of a home treatment to meet your individual needs, together with references to women in Canada who have passed through your troubles and regained health, or you can secure this FREE treatment for your daughter, sister or mother.

If you suffer from pain in the head or back, constipation or piles, pain in the sides, dizziness, extreme nervousness, depression, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feelings under the eyes, or a general feeling that life is not worth living, I invite you to send to-day for my complete ten days' treatment entirely free and postpaid to prove to yourself that these ailments can be easily and surely overcome at your own home, without the expense of a hospital treatment or the dangers of an operation.

When you have been benefited, I shall only ask you to pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for all, young or old.

Read My FREE Offer:

To Mothers of Daughters I will explain a simple home treatment which speedsily and effectively dispels headaches and lassitude in young women and restores them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember it costs you nothing to give my method of home treatment a complete ten days' trial, and if you wish to continue it costs only a few cents a week to do so, and it does not interfere with one's daily work. Write and ask for the free treatment to-day as you may not see this offer again.

MUSICAL OPTIMISTS

ESTABLISH SOCIETY

Music As Aid to Training As a Boxer; The Juilliard Request

(By George J. Dyke.)

There has just been started by that happy girl composer, Manana Zucca (she says she is always happy and smiling), the "Society of American Musical Optimists." Why not start such a society here? I admit I am still a musical optimist, and believe we are going to have a glorious season of music this coming Winter. All sorts of lovely things are under consideration. Come, Victorians, let's be optimists—one and all.

Ragtime is based chiefly on what is known in music as syncopation—a shifting of an accent of a chord or note by tying it to another, usually the weak beat receiving equal importance with the strong—which thus naturally interrupts the order of accentuation. Examples are to be found in the well-known "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn" (Godard) and in Schumann's "Why?" Ragtime music came into being about twenty years ago, when the rage began for "coon" songs and cake walks. Jazz music is usually written with the utmost liberty according to the taste or mood of the composer. When the jazz takes its departure, which it will as surely as night follows day, one wonders what will come in its place. Will the waltz come back? Will it be as in the Victorian days, a dance programme of nearly all waltzes with a few other dances as a variation? Or are we to have sprung upon us something new and hitherto quite unknown in the dancing line?

"Gentleman Jim"
James J. Corbett, "Gentleman Jim," former holder of the world's heavyweight championship, recently said that "music had its place in making me a champion." Jim also adds that "the world is understanding better every day the value of music in the perfection of men in athletic skill. The preparation of men for recent warfare showed the value of music in preparing men physically."

It appears that "Gentleman Jim" whilst training used to punch the bag to the accompaniment of music and found that he could more effectively and correctly time his left "lead" by using a phonograph when practicing. He practiced his "hook" and "short crosses" also in the same manner, and jumped the rope to music's time. There are here revealed great possibilities in the boxing line. And why not? Music, the universal guide, counsellor and friend, should be everywhere. In this sort of old world of ours we need all the happiness, and brightness we can get, so let us have music more and more, no matter where or when.

The song "Katy" brought over $20,000 to its composer, Jeff O'Hara.

Before the time of steamboats, a bell used to ring at high tide at Gravesend as a warning to hurry off the dock committee in 1796 shows that there were then over 12,000 watermen employed on London docks.

Pilgrim Fathers
On the twenty-fourth of last month was celebrated at Southampton, England, a trans-oceanic pageant—the first of its kind—to mark the Pilgrim Fathers' Tercentenary. (The Mayflower sailed from Southampton for America in 1620). Historic events were arranged, and some 200 societies took part in the programme. Some time following the opening event in England the pageant will be continued in America, in Virginia, and elaborate ceremonies are in process of preparation. There is a wealth of old English ballads and folk songs and plenty of appropriate material for the event.

John McCormack is now in Australia. The popular tenor will give no less than twenty concerts in Sydney and twenty in Melbourne. This establishes a record in Australia for a single artist. The first six houses were sold out in a few days. Surely it can be said that McCormack will have a gloriously triumphant season down in the Antipodes. Forty-four thousand dollars were asked for by the Board of Estimate of New York City for new pianos in the public schools of that city. Just one-half was conceded, and discontent followed. After all, what was $44,000 when a budget running into the millions was recently passed, and where such a small sum makes for musical progress and for the musical training of the children.

Dr. Ethel Smythe, the English composer, in The London Evening News, says that only five per cent. of operas actually produced live.

Juilliard Foundation

Twelve months ago the Juilliard bequest in the multi-millionaire's will was made known. The "Juilliard Foundation" runs into millions and its aims may be grouped under two general heads. One is to provide education and opportunity for the American musician; the other, to teach the public and to elevate its musical tastes. The only way to instruct the public in the appreciation of good music is to let it hear as much as possible of such music and as often as the opportunity exists.

Experiments have shown that fish are strangely attracted by musical sounds.

Gervase Elwes, the English tenor, is another singer coming over to America by special request. Mr. Elwes made a decided hit with his superb singing of Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," given by the New York Oratorio Society some time ago.

The Seaforth Highlanders' Band of Vancouver was included in a programme given in the large stadium at Tacoma. One of the newspapers estimated the attendance at this well-known and much advertised stadium at between 40,000 and 45,000. (But there was another attraction, too; the concert was followed by a big fireworks display). The selections by the Seaforth were received with immense enthusiasm.

Los Angeles is another musical centre, and, thanks to the Philharmonic Orchestra, formed a year ago last June, the best in the realm of music has been put within the reach of the people. The educational and advertising value of the Philharmonic cannot be estimated. Special programmes were prepared for school children, and over 30,000 attended, and over 120,000 people attended the symphony and popular concerts. The Philharmonic concerts are now given in what used to be known as Clune's Auditorium, the best in Los Angeles. In the Spring of next year (1921) the Philharmonic Orchestra will visit the principal cities of the west, on a tour lasting five weeks. Victoria and Vancouver are included in its itinerary.

Singing Lessons in Open
London school children are now taught singing out of doors. It is the custom now to organize trips to the country and the choirs are given their singing lessons in the open air. Singing classes out of doors are certainly particularly conducive to health, as those taking part inhale plenty of good fresh air.

Naples, the birthplace of the composer-Leoncavallo, will erect by public subscription a monument to his memory.

British National Music

In the music of Scotland, Wales and Ireland there are vast differences in distinction from each other, and in contrast to the music of England herself, yet in a certain sense the folk music of the British Isles belongs to England.

Tactius vividly describes the sacrificial chants of the early Druids. The Saxons' boisterous gaiety in music has also been remarked, a characteristic that has never disappeared from British music. In the medieval days St. Augustine brought the Gregorian chant to Britain (597), then the Normans added romantic color to the Saxon music, and later the influence of the French was distinctly seen in the dialogues with music, which were popular in Queen Elizabeth's days.

In the sixteenth century music played an important part in the court life, and Shakespeare, in his works, frequently mentions music. Then came the Reformation, which had the effect of subduing this period of joyous song and in the Cromwellian days the psalms of the Puritan were gloomy and sombre in strong contrast to the dashing gaiety and the songs of the Cavaliers.

As usual among the common people, song springs spontaneously from the heart, and whether "for weal or for woe" song ultimately finds expression. No nation perhaps possesses such simple yet dramatic ballads as are found in England. "Rule Britannia" reflects the style of opera in Dr. Arne's day (1710-1778) as does also "Under the Greenwood Tree" in the fifth scene, second act of "As You Like It." Many claim "God Save the King" belongs to neither England nor America, but was brought over by the Saxons. (How this tune got to America no one has been able to discover). In the dances, round dances, etc., are to be found the sturdy simplicity of the English. The term "Old English," frequently used in programmes, is given to the music of the late seventeenth century.

It will be interesting to the many North of England people here to know that at the Glasgow competition held during the Summer for bands and soloists that Wingate's carried off first prize. The downfall of Ford's seems inexplicable, a band that has won the first prize for many seasons against all comers. "Jimmie" Thorpe, the world's champion cornetist, was the victim of a regrettable misunderstanding, which caused his disqualification. Mr. Thorpe was the championship holder.

The test piece for the bands was by overture "Crown Diamonds." This was also the test piece in 1912.

ROYAL VICTORIA

To-day Manager Denham, of the Royal Victoria Theatre, will show for the last time, the great William Fox special production, "Should a Husband Forgive?" which combines racing and ring-fighting with the gravest problem that humanity ever has been called upon to solve. The picture marks an epoch in the annals of the screen. R. A. Walsh, the famous director, is responsible for the story as well as for the direction, and he never did a finer piece of work. Not only is the play a superb one in theme and treatment, but the photoplay is a delight to the eye.

The cast, an all-star one, includes Miriam Cooper, Mrs. James K. Hackett, Martha Mansfield, Percy Standing, Lytton Chambers, Vincent Coleman, Charles Craig, James Marcus and Johnny Riek, professional boxer. It is a picture that all lovers of the best in photoplays should see.

DOMINION

Alice Lake is now a Metro Star in her own right. The New York office of Metro Pictures Corporation issued an announcement to that effect immediately after the receipt of a telegram from the big studios in Hollywood, Calif., where Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro, arrived last Friday in company with Marcus Loew.

This young screen celebrity, who triumphed overnight in "Should a Woman Tell?", has as her first starring vehicle, a picturization of the great American play, "Shore Acres," by James A. Horns, which will be the special feature at the Dominion Theatre this week.

Elevation of Miss Lake to equal rank with the other stars appearing in Screen Classics, Inc. productions was brought about because of this young actress's undeniable merit. It follows within a few weeks the closing of a five-year contract between Miss Lake and Metro. Even prior to that time exhibitors throughout the country had deluged Metro with letters in praise of Miss Lake's work, in asking that she be given the full status of a star.

Although Alice Lake has been advancing steadily in the finish of her art and in her popularity with motion picture showmen and patrons alike, it was not until "Lombard, Ltd.," in which she played the part of Nora, the assistant to Tito Lombard, the stellar role enacted by Bert Lytell, in the Hattens comedy, that she commanded sweeping recognition. Then it was that Maxwell Karger, Director General of Screen Classics, Inc., determined to give the slender dark-eyed girl an even greater opportunity.

This chance took the form of the principal featured role in "Should a Woman Tell?" from Finis Fox's wonderful story of New England fisher life. There was no need, Mr. Karger perceived after viewing the early scenes of the picture, to take chances on not signing up this young woman who was just crossing the threshold of success in her line. Upon his recommendation, Mr. Royland immediately made arrangements with her to appear for the next five years in Metro releases only.

After the tremendous popular ovation "Should a Woman Tell?" received at the Capitol Theatre, the world's latest playhouse attraction, New York, Mr. Rowland and Mr. Karger both felt that an actress who could come out of what was almost obscurity to take by storm the most sophisticated picture audience in the country fairly out of themselves, should receive the reward of stardom.

VARIETY

Patrons of the Variety Theatre found Eugene O'Brien, in "His Wife's Money," much to their liking. The picture will continue to the attraction to-day for the last time. "His Wife's Money" has a story which is absorbingly interesting. It sends everyone who sees it out of the theatre wondering what the same actress does under the same circumstances. The O'Brien and Zena Keefe, as Richard Flint and Marion Phillips, respectively, give splendid performances.

COLUMBIA

Charles Ray, the youthful screen star, has risen to fame largely on account of his ability to interpret country boy roles supremely well. The man who has been furnishing him with most of the characters that he makes live in pictures is Julien Josephson. Mr. Josephson is the author of such Ray classics as "The Egg Crate Wallop," "Bill Henry," and "Paris Green," the feature attraction at the Columbia Theatre this week. He writes about small town people because he is a small town product himself. Not many years ago Julien Josephson was running the general store in a little village in Oregon. He tried to introduce into its management some of the ideas he had picked up while a student at Leland Stanford University. They didn't work out too well, and he soon closed up shop and went to San Francisco. It was while trying to make out a living there as a shoe salesman that Mr. Josephson submitted his first story to Thomas H. Ince. The latter liked it so well that, after a little talk with the author, he signed him to a long term contract to write stories for Charles Ray.

PANTAGES

"Lifting Shadows," the Leonce Perret-Pathe feature that brings Emmy Wehlen to Pantages Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, is a story of intrigue of a great country gone mad; of flaming passions, of deep, burning hatred and eternal love. Soia Ostrowsky, a native land-Russia—now sought safety in the United States. She married an American, thereby gaining the rights of an American citizen. When, five years after her flight from her home, the shadow of her past found her and haunted her, she stood up for the land of her adoption.

As though this cloud was not dark enough, another tragedy touched her life when she shot her degenerate husband. Though she was acquitted of the murder, in her soul she believed she committed the crime. These shadows overcast her great love for a clean-hearted, whole-souled American until the clouds were burning inside out to show their silver lining.

The cast is an all-star one, presenting Wyndham Standing in the role of the hero; Stuart Holmes, as the drug-ridden husband; and Julie Swayne Gordon as a countess. The action of the story takes place in the United States.

PRINCESS

Have you seen "Fair and Warmer" at the Princess Theatre? If you have, you don't need to be told what a worth while comedy it is. If you haven't seen it, you should go there not a dull moment during the whole evening entertainment. Miss Berkley has the most exacting role as yet, and is charming. Miss Page and Mr. Alden are doing some splendid team work, in fact, all the members of the company are well cast and can't help but delight their many friends. Walter Seligfeld, the new member of the company, is living up to all that has been said of him. "Fair and Warmer" is side-splitting and will give many a hearty laugh.

"Fair and Warmer" will play the usual matinee to-day, and the night performance will be your last opportunity for seeing this production. The next offering of the Mildred Page Players will be, "The Little

How R. R. Rate Increase Will Touch Family Purse

No one can hope to avoid paying his share of the railroad worker's wages and the cost of new railway extensions and improvements, by merely refusing to travel. "Every pound of food eaten, every ton of fuel burned, every garment worn and every stick of timber entering into the construction of homes will contribute its share" to the gigantic total, reasons the Washington Post, which estimates that it means a per capita tax of $12.00 on every man, woman and child in the United States for higher freight rates alone, and perhaps $15.00, when all the increases are taken into consideration. In view of such estimates THE LITERARY DIGEST believes it worth while to gather for its readers the views of leading authorities in various important industries on the precise effect of the new rates in their respective fields. In some cases the statements were found in newspaper interviews, in others they come in response to direct telegram and telephone queries. At any rate, this summary of opinion has been incorporated in an interesting and instructive article in THE LITERARY DIGEST for August 14th, 1920. You will wish to read it.

HOW ABOUT DRESSING UP YOUR AUTOMOBILE?

Right now, with Summer here, to paint or not to paint is a frequently discussed question with motorists whose mount has done honorable service during the Winter and now seems to be in need of the paint brush and the varnish pot.

Amateur automobile painting takes of some of the uncertainties that beset a large part of our feminine population when the latter essay the now popular stunt of ornamenting their faces with a bouquet of red roses and their noses with a dressing of ivory white, thus achieving a chromatic ensemble which nature herself might view with jealous envy.

Just in confidence, automobile painting as well as the field of cosmetics, are sometimes called upon to cover a multitude of shortcomings, and as far as conspicuous success is concerned many seem to be called but few chosen.

Yet, as a matter of fact, the repainting of an automobile, as far as a serviceable and presentable job is concerned, requires less in the way of professional skill than patience, the capacity to proceed with care, and attention from our national vice—excessive hurry.

Even the trained painter cannot hurry an automobile job and produce creditable work at the same time. Consequently, when the owner decides to take a wallop at the high cost of car painting, it behooves him to take at least a few elementary precautions which will guide him past the pitfalls of failure.

Preliminary Cleaning.
First of all the motorist may do such preliminary work which even the painter does not perform himself, but delegates to less skilled hands. The painter may be called later, when it is time to put on the final touches which when undertaken by the downright novice, might mar what otherwise would turn out a satisfactory piece of work. The automobilist himself is probably just as dexterous in swinging a scrubbing brush as the roughest of the paint shop, and a piece of sandpaper wielded by the business man is apt to do as valiant service as if the plain rubbing down operation were in charge of paid-by-the-hour talent whose hours are often elastic in the wrong direction.

The hardest work of all is the preliminary cleaning. Not only the body work, but also the underpinnings, mud guards, axles, springs, steering connections, etc., must be cleaned thoroughly. It is a good scheme to prepare a mixture of two-thirds of kerosene and one-third of turpentine which first should be applied to the chassis parts. A day after the first treatment the worst of the dirt may be scraped off with a broad putty knife and wherever possible a steel wire scratch brush should be brought into play. It may be necessary to repeat this treatment two or three times before the desired state of cleanliness is achieved.

When the running gear is clean it is time to proceed to the easier work of preparing the body work. The kerosene and turpentine mixture also performs good work here in loosening tar and dirt that have accumulated through the season's running.

Fill in Dents.
Even the most carefully groomed and looked after car invariably has a number of bald spots in its finish—places where the bare metal shows through the sides, of the fenders are particularly apt to be thus disfigured. Unless the doors are provided with hand-grips, they are bound to show spots in which the paint is worn away.

Also, the arch enemy of all good painting is dust. It is a good plan to close up all openings apt to let dust filter in, such as the gap between the door and the garage door. A sheet of cheese cloth, stretched over the window openings while the varnishing is done and the final finish dries will help materially.

The chief cause of skidding is running on a wet pavement at high speed. Then you want to stop quickly and apply the brakes, but the car does not stop. The rear end slews around and hits the curb or another vehicle, or the car goes straight on and drifts into a trolley, automobile or pedestrian. You should treat a car on a wet pavement the same as you treat yourself on ice, as though expecting your feet to go out from under you.

Front wheel skids come chiefly from rounding a corner or curve at so high a speed that the front wheels lose their traction. To overcome it apply the brake gently, which will drag the rear wheels and give the front wheels a chance to take hold.

Oiled Roads Slippery.
Another cause of skidding, which comes chiefly in the country, is due to a crowned road, or one which is freshly oiled. The novice will find a crowned road—that is, one that is higher in the center than at the sides—is often dangerous when wet. A road which is much travelled accumulates quite a bit of oil, and water added makes it a mighty slippery proposition. One is likely to take a sudden slide into the ditch.

It is all right when you are driving in the middle of the road, but when you have to turn out for another vehicle it is a deep sleep from tobogganing down the slope into the ditch. The oiled road, when it is nice and greasy, or where there has been a shower, will be worse than ice, and, if you see a warning, "Newly Oiled Road," you would better believe in signs.

Anti-skid chains are necessary when travelling on roads such as described. Their use is not imperative on the front wheels ordinarily, although many careful drivers apply them there. Chains are the surest safeguard against skidding.

When a skid occurs, turn the front wheels in the direction of the skid, release the clutch and apply the brake gently when the wheels seem to take a hold, not before. Do not apply the brake too harshly, or you will increase the skid action.

Some cars have a very decided tendency to skid. There are various reasons, and it would be a pretty good idea when buying a car to find out just how easily it does skid. Many times, however, this tendency may be traced to an adjustment of the brakes. The necessity for an even adjustment is that if one wheel is turning and the other dragging it does not require much to produce a skid.

Stopping the Skid.
Skidding often may be prevented by throttling down the engine and applying the brake while the clutch is still engaged. This will prevent the rear wheels from locking. It is a peculiarity of traction that revolving wheels are less likely to skid than where they are locked and sliding over the pavement. But when you try this method be very sure that

Oil in Motor, What it Does And the Best Kind to Use

An automobile owner who relies on poor motor oil as a means of saving money in the operation of his car is like the farmer who fastened green goggles over the eyes of his cattle before turning them into a dry pasture to grass. He is simply fooling himself and injuring his motor performance.

Conditions within the motor can only be met by a good motor oil. The fundamental task of a lubricant is to prevent undue frictional heat, or in other words, to protect all wearing surfaces against destructive wear. If the oil you are using now does not succeed in that, you may be assured you are burning up poor oil.

To more clearly illustrate the value of good oil, consider the piston in each cylinder moving up and down many times a second. Think what that means. Think of the surface the pistons would be rubbing against if their travel was in one continuous line. And think of the heat the piston and cylinder walls are subjected to by the heat explosion of the gas mixture.

To overcome the intense friction that otherwise would be created, a thin layer of oil must be maintained between the walls of the cylinders and pistons. Without that film of oil pistons would soon seize, or freeze to the cylinder walls.

Any recognized motor oil will furnish the lubrication for a short time. But only a motor oil of the correct body and quality will stand up in the long run. Scored cylinder walls and scored pistons are common marks of the poor motor oil. As all internal combustion motors are heat engines, a terrific heat is generated within the cylinders on the explosion of each charge of gas. This heat is removed through the cooling system, yet for efficient operation of the motor the cylinder temperature remains at a high point. So, in addition to overcoming frictional heat, motor oil must also be able to withstand the heat resulting from combustion.

SKIDDING ALWAYS BIG MOTOR DANGER

Right Handling of Brakes and Clutch Overcomes Peril

Choose a smooth bit of asphalt pavement when it is free from traffic and where it is nice and slippery from a Spring shower. Speed up to the traffic limit on the brake and at the same time turn the steering wheel slightly to one side. See what happens. Then sit in the back seat and let someone else drive. You will be cured, at least, until you forget the "gone" feeling.

The open season for skidding is Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter. It comes with late frost and cold rain with the thunder shower and the street sprinkler, with the equinoctial and earliest snowflakes and with loose snow, packed snow and ice. But you may escape it or at least its dangerous phases and learn to neutralize the effect.

The chief cause of skidding is running on a wet pavement at high speed. Then you want to stop quickly and apply the brakes, but the car does not stop. The rear end slews around and hits the curb or another vehicle, or the car goes straight on and drifts into a trolley, automobile or pedestrian. Skidding often may be prevented by throttling down the engine and applying the brake while the clutch is still engaged. This will prevent the rear wheels from locking. It is a peculiarity of traction that revolving wheels are less likely to skid than where they are locked and sliding over the pavement. But when you try this method be very sure that If the oil breaks down under this heat, it is no more a lubricant than a thin film of water. Poor oil permits the moving surfaces to come into actual contact, which results in destructive wear.

Fouled spark plugs and pitted valves are usually due to incorrect lubricant. And when valves are ground, the expense should be charged to poor oil. In the same way figure as lubricating expense broken piston rings, worn wristpins and the cost of eliminating motor knocks, cylinder and piston wear.

Another disadvantage of poor oil is that it is weakened much more readily than good oil when on first starting a cold motor the gasoline vapor condenses and runs down the cylinder walls. The poorer the oil the easier it is for gasoline to wash out the film of lubricant between the piston and cylinder walls.

Good oil will protect the main bearing, as well as the connecting rod and piston pin bearings, against destructive wear. When the crankshaft is revolving at a rate of 1,000 to 2,000 revolutions a minute, a terrific heat would be generated between the shaft and bearings if the oil lacked sufficient body and quality.

And now you perhaps wonder how you are going to know which is the good oil and which is the poor oil. It is true that most of the time the man looks alike and feels alike; yet there is a vast difference in their quality and body.

There is one way to discover the right oil for your motor under the conditions which you operate it. And that is to consult the Buick dealer in your locality. He understands the conditions which must be met in your particular part of the country. Because he wants you to obtain the uninterrupted use of your motor car, he will specify the lubricant best adapted to your motor. And it is to your advantage to call for such brands when your oil supply needs replenishing. You will find good oil is cheap at any price.

When the brake is applied you do not twist the steering wheel.

The novice would do well to test this method on a wet pavement where there is no traffic. Make the car go at a moderate pace, and then try to correct it by this method.

When one sees the large number of disabled cars along the curb on a wet highway, with their wheels smashed, an axle broken, car overturned and possible someone killed or injured, it is evident that more than ordinary caution should be exercised by the driver, especially the novice. He should master the skid; it is, he should understand its causes and ways to prevent it, and how to counteract the danger when it comes.

What the Experts Say

Noise in the starter is a sure sign of trouble. This condition may be induced by broken or badly worn teeth, a bent armature shaft, a loose armature bearing or teeth badly meshed.

A very convenient battery connection may be made from a piece of heavy steel coil springs. The spring wire at each end is fashioned into a hook and these are slipped into the spring posts, the tension of the spring insuring perfect contact.

Truck drivers should be taught not to move the steering wheel when the car is standing still. This practice strains the joints between the wheel and the front road wheels. Of course, there may be times when it is necessary to move the wheels when the car is at rest, but, as a practice, it is bad and should be avoided.

The oil pressure gauge furnishes a rather accurate sign of determining the condition of the engine bearings. As the bearings wear the oil circulates more freely and the pressure naturally drops. If the oil gauge persistently shows low pressure it is reasonable to assume engine bearing wear, provided the regulator is all right.

The noises which accompany a rattling drip-pan and loose fenders are rather hard to tell apart, and this suggestion is offered: Ask someone to stand on the running board and bear on that fender which you suspect of making the noise. If that does not stop it, look for a loose bolt in the drip pan.

In fitting anti-skid chains they must never be put on so tight that they cannot creep. Unless the chain can creep, the wear will be centralized at the fixed point where the cross chains lie. The idea is to have the wear distributed all over the tread.

A common, yet at the same time mysterious, cause of an engine missing explosions is water in the carburetor. When trying other causes of skidding, try draining the carburetor. Catch some of the fuel in the hand and note if globules form on top. They reveal the presence of water.

The connections on dry cells should always be kept tight. Any one connection in a series which happens to be loose will cause difficult starting. The vibration of the car is very apt to loosen these and a frequent inspection will often times save a lot of delay in starting the engine.

One rule the truck operator will be well advised to cling to as regards the lubrication of the disc clutch, and that is always to use the brand of oil recommended by the maker of the vehicle. The truck clutch shoulders a heavy burden at best and absolutely correct lubrication is essential to efficient operation of continued service.

In truing a slightly misaligned wire wheel a close fitting wrench or parallel pliers should be used on the nipples. The general principle is to perform slowly and evenly. A wooden block serves to steady the hand in chalking the "out" and "in" places on the wheels. The general principle is to tighten nipples on the outer rows of spokes throws the rim in, while tightening those of the inner row moves the rim out. Nipples directly opposite those tightened should be loosened about half as much.

FINDS DISTANCES TAKEN BY BRAKES TO STOP MOTORS

Cleveland Police Head Compiles Table Based on Speeds

Cleveland, Aug. 14.—Inspector of Police Edward H. May, after studying the distances at which automobiles can stop at various speeds, has compiled the following table for the benefit of the auto driver. The tests were made over a dry paved road by the same machine, with the breaks in good condition.

At 10 miles an hour the machine was stopped within 9 feet 2 inches; at 15 miles an hour it stopped in 20 feet 8 inches; at 20 miles an hour, 27 feet; 25 miles an hour, 38 feet; 30 miles an hour, 53 feet 3 inches, and 35 miles an hour, 113 feet.

May also ascertained the number of feet the car travelled each second at the different speeds. They were: 10 miles an hour—14 ft. 8 ins.; 15 miles an hour—22 ft.; 20 miles an hour—29 ft. 4 ins.; 25 miles an hour—36 ft. 8 ins.; 30 miles an hour—44 ft.; 35 miles an hour—51 ft. 4 ins.

HOW TO HEAR HEART BEATS OF YOUR MOTOR

It is not a very difficult matter to construct an instrument that will enable the owner to listen to the very heart beats of his motor and find out what ails it. One way is to secure a stethoscope such as is used by physicians in listening to the beating of the patient's heart and the working of his breathing apparatus. This may be made suitable to the purpose by lengthening the central tube. The other end of the device may then be held against any part of the motor without the necessity of removing the receivers from the ears.

Another scheme is to secure from the junk man or local telephone company a telephone receiver body into the closed end of which is screwed a steel rod 3-16 inch in diameter and about fifteen inches long. The rod should be threaded for about one and one-half inches from one end and a nut and lock washer should be used on each side of the receiver so as to hold the steel rod securely in place. When the rod is held against the engine and the receiver to the ear all sounds in the motor are "telegraphed" up the rod so that each bearing or wrist-pin knock stands out clearly above the noise of the operating parts of the motor.—American Motorist.

RARE PICTURE OF FIRST INDEPENDENT SETTLER'S HOME ON THE ISLAND

The above picture was made from a line drawing by Miss Phoebe Day, of the Times Engraving Department, from an old sepia sketch, of Captain William Colquhoun Grant's home at Sooke. This was the first bona fide settlement by a non-Hudson's Bay Company official on Vancouver Island. The picture is the property of D. R. W. Muir, a grandson of John Muir, who bought the place from Captain Grant. A small sketch appeared recently in the Public School Magazine, and from the description the accompanying facts are gathered. The house was built of squared logs by Captain Grant, and roofed with split cedar shingles. It was built between two rocky knolls, and two cannons were mounted. The place was called Achaneach, a Gaelic word. The modern name is Springdale, a new modern building now occupying the site. The cannons disappeared one exploding, the old passing to a junk dealer.

Captain Grant, of the Royal Scots Greys, came out to Vancouver Island in 1849, and after trying Metchoin, settled at Sooke. He built a house and barns, and soon had thirty-five acres under cultivation. In addition he built a saw-mill at the end of Sooke Harbor, at the spot now known as Ash's Bay. He raised cattle, horses, pigs and poultry. He says, in a paper read before the Royal Geographical Society, on his return to England, "I myself, at Sooke, raised excellent crops of wheat, barley, oats, peas, beans, turnips and potatoes. Swedish turnips, in particular, did remarkably well, and produced a heavy crop. I imported all the seed, except for wheat, peas and potatoes, from Van Diemen's Land, through the Sandwich Islands." He paid a visit to the Sandwich Islands, and while there he was given some broom seed by the British consul, Mr. Wylie, and on his return, he planted it in his Sooke garden.

Three of the seeds sprouted, and thus the broom started. After he had been at Sooke a couple of years, the gold excitement in California was at its height, and he resolved to go and try his luck. He leased his farm to some of his employees, and left for San Francisco. When he returned without having struck it rich, he found his farm had been neglected, the land thrown out of cultivation, and much of his property destroyed. He sold out to the Muir family and left the country. He went to San Francisco again, and while there he was offered a position in the Mexican Army, but the Crimean War breaking out, he resolved to return to Scotland and enlist. On arriving there, he was offered his old position in the Scots Greys, but he refused it, and instead took the position of Lieutenant-Colonel in the cavalry of a regiment known as the Turkish Contingent. He fought all through the war, but after it was over he contracted fever, and never recovered.

VALUE OF CAR IS IN ITS PARTS

Merit Lies in Quality of Every Unit; Looks Secondary

The majority of the cars on the market are what are usually called assembled cars; that is, the main units of the chassis—engine, clutch, transmission and axles—are bought of parts makers, concerns that make nothing else but that one unit. It is quite possible to get a high quality of car in the assembled class, but it is equally true that many assembled chassis are simply thrown together with the parts bought merely to meet a certain price. The bodies on these cars are usually of most attractive design, so that the eye appeal will be satisfied. In other words, the manufacturer knows that the initial appeal will be satisfactory, otherwise further investigation will be made. The wise buyer to-day will investigate the value of the different parts used in the construction of the chassis.

The owner should make a study of the relative value of the important units that enter into the construction of the car and avoid a chassis with even one cheap unit. Some makers, in order to meet a price, will use a fairly good engine, a good transmission, but a cheap rear axle. Knowing that so many buyers select on appearance, the maker is safe in putting almost any sort of axle under the car. If, however, the buyer becomes wise enough to know good parts from poor ones he will avoid the chassis with the cheaper parts, even though the body is a handsome affair. When you buy a suit of clothes you expect the vest to be of the same quality as the coat or trousers so that all the units will wear about the same length of time. The same thing holds to have the same relative high quality.

Another thing a prospective purchaser should bear in mind, and that is that a body may be good looking and still cheap. Mounted on a cheap frame the result is the doors soon rattle and the whole body get out of shape because of the warping of the frame. It is necessary for the automobile buyer to study fundamentals. Merely to go into a market and buy a car with the money you have is to take a chance with a considerable amount of money. Bear in mind you are buying transportation, not merely a vehicle, just as you buy tone, not appearance, in a violin or piano. Pretty nearly all violins look alike, yet the difference in actual value may be thousands of dollars.

OIL IS TESTED AS GAS SUBSTITUTE

New York—It is claimed chemist perfects fuel manufactured from vegetable waste at five cents a gallon after sixteen years experimenting. It drove a six-cylinder automobile motor in a demonstration in Brooklyn. It is expected to propel engines for automobiles. Inventor of process sees revolution in industrial locomotion as a result.

TWENTY MILLIONS FOR EQUIPMENT

Four Western Provinces Will Spend That on Motors During 1920

Statisticians in America and other prominent officials state that each car owner will use on his car at least 5 per cent of its purchase price each year on accessories, or that each car owner will purchase each year 8 per cent of the original value of his car in accessories. On this basis, it is a matter of easy calculation to find accessories alone during 1920 in the four western provinces of Canada will be $16,827,528.

Outside of this tremendous outlay in first purchase of accessories there is the sale of tires. Considering the fact that there are 142,062 automobiles in the four western provinces, it is fair to assume that each car will use on an average four tires during 1920; or a total of 568,248 casings. Placing the average price of each tire at $25, this makes a total tire business in 1920 of $14,206,200.

Conservatively estimated Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia during 1920 will absorb therefore, $21,033,728 worth of automotive equipment and tires.

To this large sum, however, must be added the charges for oil and gasoline to keep these 142,062 automobiles going. It is figured that each car in the West will consume at least 300 gallons of gasoline each year, representing a total consumption of 24,609,600 gallons or an additional expenditure of $17,047,440.

The cost of oil and gas consumed approximates $135,000.

Automobiles in use 1919, 142,062.

Aggregate value, $210,362,475.

Potential equipment business 1920, $16,827,528.

Potential tire business 1920, $14,206,200.

Potential gasoline business 1920, $17,047,440.

Potential oil business 1920, $135,000.

Total, $48,246,178.

An Analysis of the "Road Speed" of a MAXWELL is a tribute to its special steels

Men driving larger cars have often wondered at the "road speed" of a Maxwell.

True, in an open, straight stretch they have run away from a Maxwell.

But in any "piece of going" (and we have many such roads in Canada) in which hills, turns, curves or rough roads enter into the general average, they do not outrun a Maxwell.

The reason for this is the special steels in a Maxwell. They are made to Maxwell's own formulae, and make possible construction combining great strength with light weight.

The lightness of the weight enables a Maxwell to take a turn with more ease and less slowing up, come down a hill under better control, ascend a hill as well, and make more time over a rough piece of roadway.

The strength of its steels enables a Maxwell to stand equally as well, or better, side strains, road unevenness, etc.

In other words, a Maxwell makes speed when a larger car cannot, and thus evens up to a high average its "road speed" without breaking the speed laws.

This ability in a Maxwell is one of many that is winning new friendships daily. Nearly 400,000 of them to date; in another year 500,000.

REMEMBER BATTERIES.

At this time of the year when night driving is so popular, one of the most serious troubles is brought about by the failure of the head lamps. In order to keep the battery at full efficiency it is necessary to bring each cell to level at least once each week. If this is not done the excessive evaporation due to extra charging and Summer heat reduces quickly the volume of electrolyte. The battery ought to be tested weekly, connections cleaned and the cables and wires to the rest of the system gone over.

Champion

Dependable Spark Plugs

The unfailing dependability of Champion quality construction has justified every claim made for it, even under the most adverse motor conditions.

There's a world of satisfaction in knowing that Champion "3450" insulators stand shock, vibration, heat, expansion and rough usage to an unusual degree, especially when you require emergency service.

The best indication of the satisfactory, efficient service of Champions is contained in the fact that they are regular factory equipment in over 300 different makes of motors and engines in Canada and the U.S.

Make "Champion" on the insulator your guide to satisfactory spark plug service and you'll eliminate all worry, delays and costly experiments.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN AND THE HOME

Beauty No Luxury But An Everyday Essential

In a downtown office, accessible to daylight by way of a skylight only, one of several women there employed frequently brought in, on black morning-late, a single red rose. Placed in a slim necked vase it was passed, hour by hour, from one desk to another throughout the day, and it is more than probable that the slow awakened upon each face in turn in the presence of the rose's perfect glow was further communicated into the task in hand.

In this utilitarian age of ours it has become necessary to demonstrate the usefulness, the purposefulness of a matter before we may justifiably occupy ourselves with it. That beauty, therefore, in its manifold forms and manifestations should claim the concern of busy, practical minded persons of affairs such as most of us pride ourselves on being is a bit fantastic and scarcely to be taken seriously.

An Utilitarian Age.

People who profess the arts and, again, people of leisure and wealth can afford to indulge themselves in this regard; ourselves, even, in vacation time, may peruse the pastures of beauty—though lively sports or swift travel or highly keyed intercourse with our human kind are more apt to consume our holiday time. These pursuits need no defence. Beauty, however, "bread of the soul," to be sought and savored and salvaged for sustenance, that is what can well bear a brief in its behalf.

That the breath and body of beauty, so far from being a luxury, an extra in life, should present itself as a substance, a needful, a daily requirement, that we be fully rounded, all-sided, well balanced and truly efficient, may seem a novel if not quixotic view in this modern, earnest day. Yet the fact is that, constituted as we are, our nerve and sense organism demands for its full and steady growth regular feeling from the immortal fount. Nor is this to be construed as having significance exclusive to those seasons of strain, of irritation, depression or dismay when to repair to a wide, fair scene or to dwell an hour among pieces from the masters serves in all certainty to restore one's self-command.

In Appreciation.

Rather, this nourishment is to be derived by developing an active discernment and perceptiveness and appreciation of beauty as it beats about us or hides beside us, so that the nature and quality of beauty will be assimilated into our being, to bathe and steady us in dry or distressful moments, to aid our spirits against blinding conflicts, to reinforce our soul sinew against those struggles with circumstance that do so wring us to our depths.

"This can beauty do for us, and thus endow us, when our capacity for apprehension and contemplation of beauty in the concrete rises to identification of its very self with ourselves. Our thoughts and our actions derive their shape from the things which our eyes have beheld," declares a modern philosopher. "Between the heroic deed, the duty accomplished, the sacrifice generously accepted and the beautiful landscape which we have seen in the past there is a very often a closer and more vital connection than that which our memory has retained. The more we see beautiful things the better fitted we become to perform good actions."

What Our Eyes Behold.

"If our inner life is to thrive we need a magnificent store of wonderful spoils." And not, let us gratefully understand, the spoils of the conqueror or collector. He who knows how to "love the wood rose and leave it on its stalk" has best mastered the secret of amassing these spoils. "Sometimes," says a thoughtful essayist, "our thoughts turn back toward a corner in a forest, or the end of a bank, or an orchard powdered with flowers, seen but a single time, yet remaining in our hearts and bearing a feeling that you have just rubbed elbows with happiness."

So to partake of beauty as it is vouchsafed to us to behold and recognize, that it will undergo within us that mysterious metabolism and transmutation into soul stuff, becoming itself an aid in our high behavior, thus we assist the sustaining process of beauty.

A woman admired and beloved throughout her acquaintance for her beautiful serenity and charity of spirit traced its growth in large part to the keeping, from youth on, of a daily record of the things of beauty that came under her observation. Through constant marking and cherishing of these graceful appearances her mind had become a very mirror, a register of beauty, which grew to clothe her in loveliness of soul.

In Sterner Stead.

Once habituated ourselves to pausing over and inhaling loveliness, once grant ourselves the privilege of conscious response to its silent appeal, not sentimentally but wholeheartedly, and immediately the subtle alchemy will commence its subconscious operation within us. We will become inheritors, with Wordsworth, of the "wealth" such as his worth, of the "daffodils brought to him." For "all lovely things have their power, that key of release. One has but to fill the mind with and to meditate upon a lovely thing to pass out of this world to that other world, the world of beauty, where the golden blossoms burn upon the trees forever." And not alone "in vacant or in pensive mood" will we find ourselves drawn upon this cumulative inheritance, it will stand us in sterner stead, where the brawn as well as the bloom of our character is called for. "As the art of life is learned," said Ruskin, "it will be found at last that all lovely things are also necessary; the wild flower of the wayside as well as the tended corn, and the wild birds and creatures of the forest as well as the tended cattle; because man does not live by bread alone but also by the manna of the desert."

Milady Embroiders

A pretty fad is a hat, parasol and hand bag to match. "Wool embroidery on silk or linen is smart and bright colors are favored.

To decorate a pongee smock eyelet embroidery worked with natural color thread is handsome, while patch work embroidery consisting of conventional fruits or blocks of bright colored silks buttonhole stitched on with black thread, is equally attractive.

The up-to-date girl now makes her own bathing cap to give it a bewitching originality. Rubberized fabric comes by the yard in such colors as green, red, yellow, blue, purple, white and plaid. Trimming with beading is new, and another style consists of making flowerlike creases in the material and sewing them all over the cap. Color contrast makes a smart effect. Green with a white band against the face is good because it is not too trying on the complexion. Perky bows of all kinds are used as trimmings—especially at the centre front. And triangle and tam-shaped caps are also good style.

The dainty organdie collar, cuff and vest sets worn so much with suits, sweaters and sports costumes are unbordered great many ways. One of the newest ways is to hemstitch them. A hem an inch wide with a quarter inch wide hemstitching is much used. Drawn work, too, is employed on these sets. Any set made of sheer material with threads drawn looks particularly dainty when worn over a dark coat. Wool embroidery is very easily done and makes such pretty collars. Many of these have the stems basted with black yarn, and then a few bright colored flowers worked on the front of the vest and the corners of the collars. Three wool roses of pink, blue, and yellow, with a green stitch or two, to indicate leaves is an attractive design. Colored organdie makes a very charming background for wool embroidery. Lavender is effective embroidered with yellow and black, pale green with rose, blue with pink, and green and yellow with black and white. Black and white on white is another smart combination.

A smock and hat to match is pretty for the week-end at the shore. Gray crepe with lavender green and yellow embroidery is a suggestion.

French knot embroidery is just as good as ever on hats, towels, cambric, pin cushions and truffles for the dressing table.

Now is the time to embroider a few Christmas gifts against a rush in December. Lingerie clasps of ribbon, crocheted or tatted, a flat top for a camisole or nightgown, an edge for a handkerchief or a tassel for a sweater, cuff or neck chain are suggestions. Pretty edges for curtains can be made by the Summer girl who crochets. A narrow edge of pink or blue is charming for white curtains to go in a pink or blue room. Cretonne flowers cut out and applied to scrim, crash or linen is another effective curtain trimming.

Novel Showers for The Bride-to-Be

Every little bride-to-be has a shower of her own and sometimes two or three or four or even more. Mid and late Summer weddings are becoming more and more popular and informal affairs to honor the bride that may be got without fussing and at the least expense are now in order.

An attractive and delightful linen shower was given not long ago to one of these prospective brides at the house. And this is how it was done. When the guests assembled each deposited her gift with the hostess. It was timed so that the last one to arrive was the guest of honor. After greetings had been exchanged and things quieted down a bit the crowd was ushered into the dining room. There upon the table stood a basket of the sort that the laundress makes use of to hold her unironed garments and to either hand or wheel. A white cloth was draped over the basket and attached a tiny doll flatiron tied with a great white ribbon bow.

Charming Idea.

Bride's roses basked the basket on all sides and mingled with fern and hollyhock, all the etched wrapped in wet cotton and green paper, the color of foliage.

Two white silk cords hung diagonally from the corners of the room and crossed in its centre and where these bisected each other, directly above the basket, a white crepe paper wedding bell tied with orange blossoms had been suspended, while hung from the sides were the gifts of linen and these were held in place in the most unique manner.

With the aid of glue and adhesive plaster some small doll's head had been attached to clothes pins in such a manner as to give them some semblance to the human figure, and the pins had been dressed in white silk dresses with the sleeves filled with cotton to look like arms. Bits of tulle were held upon the head by wee wreaths, and the result was a succession of tiny clothes pin brides swinging upon the line and holding the gifts in place.

Now and then appeared a space between the articles and in the spaces dangled slippers, bouquets and trunks of such small proportions that the hostess had been obliged to obtain them at a toy shop. It was the duty of the bride to take the linen down, fold them neatly and lay them in the basket with the pins on top.

Later in the afternoon coffee and heart-shaped sandwiches were served, together with salted nuts and gay little heart-shaped candies. Another attractive shower was carried out with these table arrangements: A heavy asbestos mat was placed under the lace centerpiece for a protection to the table and upon it rested a large doll trunk eighteen inches long, ten inches wide and nine inches high. To the top of this was tied a fluffy bow of white ribbon, caught with a spray of lily of the valley, and about the sides were pasted gay red paper hearts. Encircling the trunk was a row of punch glasses (these had been selected because they were easy to obtain and of uniform size), filled with lily of the valley, and the glasses themselves and the space between them and the trunk were covered with decorations of dainty sprays of leaves and fern.

At each of the ten places was a favor of a tiny doll trunk five inches long filled with candy fruit. Each of these was tied with a white ribbon to which a place card was attached and wee red paper hearts were pasted on the trunk. The bride's plate a Kewpie perched upon the little trunk, holding in his arms a key tied with white ribbon and a bit of lily of the valley. When the gifts were laid out, the bride to receive her gifts she was told to take the Kewpie's key, unlock the large trunk and discover what lay within.

This she did and disclosed her linen gifts neatly packed with tissue paper. To each was attached a card bearing the name of the donor and a verse of good wishes.

A Study of the Silhouette Down Through the Centuries

The Fourteenth Century Will Govern Fashions for 1920-21, Though Skirts Show No Tendency to Lengthen

Negligee inspired by a Greek vase, by M. Walhe.

New York, Aug. 14.—"What next?" did some one say?

A dainty gown for the debutante, inspired by a thirteenth century coat of mail! An intriguing negligee suggested by an old Greek vase? Surely if there is "nothing new under the sun," there are at least adaptations which vie with the originals in novelty and charm.

Historic background is one of the most essential requisites of the successful designer," said Miss Ethel Traphagen recently in an interview which took place in her delightful studio in Poplar Street, Brooklyn. An instructor in costume design and illustration at Cooper Union, at the New York Evening School of Industrial Art and at the Brooklyn Teachers' Association classes, Miss Traphagen speaks as one who knows. In 1913, when The N. Y. Times offered a prize for the best gown designed in America that year, it was she who proposed to each other with this great store the award with a gown designed from "Whistler's Nocturne" in the Tate Gallery in London. It was she also who designed the quaint costumes worn in the recent production of "35 East."

"Of course, one must have the inner urge to design, to create," Miss Traphagen continued. "But besides this one must have a broad cultural foundation—a thorough knowledge of periods and historical settings. This may be gained only through an exhaustive study of the treasures hidden away in museums and libraries. The silhouette is the foundation of all fashion; one must be perfectly familiar with all of its varied aspects down through the centuries. A knowledge of, and an appreciation for, the human figures is also very essential, both for the designer and the illustrator, and no serious costume designer should be without training in drawing from the nude.

Besides being fascinating work, costume design and illustration are very remunerative if one has talent and originality. I know of one girl, still a student, who makes $200 a week, while magazine work illustrates the use of the latest materials of manufacturers in developing clothes, inspired by the different museums. It would utilize the work of students who have had training in design, color and periods, as well as in drawing young men and young women who are full of enthusiasm and of new ideas. It would also encourage co-operation with our museums, to the education and enlightenment of our manufacturers."

Speaking of the coming Fall styles and those for early 1921, Miss Traphagen said: "The Moyen Age silhouette will predominate, although the importance of emphasizing individual personality will be felt stronger than ever before. A long waist line for both skirts and coats will be favored, but skirts as yet show no tendency to lengthen. Coats of suits will in most cases reach the knee and long coats and wraps will be popular. For evening wraps brocade will be in great vogue."

Shielding the Skin from Sunburn.

Left—After the "dip" if there is the slightest indication of soreness a face should be applied.

Lower—Arms, neck and face should be well anointed with cream before exposed to rays of sun.

Upper—Before retiring, gently massage skin with food.

When the bathing season is at its height, a girl whose skin is prone to easily burn or freckle, may save herself by adopting a method of prevention. She will have to devote extra attention, especially to the face, arms and neck, which are mostly exposed. No girl, no matter how tender or hardy her skin may be, should attempt to enjoy a sea bath without preparing herself to withstand the sun's strong rays. The one who has a good skin should appreciate the necessity of keeping it so, and the one who has not, should realize the necessity of cultivating it.

Of first importance is the use of a good cream well rubbed into the skin before going into the water, so that the natural oil which is absorbed by the strong rays of the sun, may be replaced.

Secondly, be sure and wear a bathing suit that is soft and not so tight that it will rub. It is friction that causes blisters, therefore anything that rubs no matter how slightly, is apt to cause a tender skin to blister, when it becomes very painful and unsightly.

After the bath, if there is the slightest indication of soreness, a good salve should be immediately rubbed on and care should be taken that the skin is not allowed to break. If, however, it should have broken, it must be protected with a piece of antiseptic cotton before covering with any clothing.

At night, before retiring, the face should be gently massaged with nourishing skin food, using as much as the skin will absorb. It is a well established fact that one has new skin every sixty days. It is kept well nourished it will not become dry and can be easily smoothed out.

Wrinkles in the skin just like wrinkles in clothes are caused by creasing the skin and not smoothing it out. First there will be a line, then continued contraction without relaxation will cause a deep crease, and eventually unsightly wrinkles appear.

Only ten minutes a day devoted to the care of the skin in Summer time will work wonders. Remember, it is no longer considered coquetry that urges a woman to protect her youthful beauty; it is self-respect and a duty she owes to herself and to those with whom she comes in contact.

Good grooming is a most valuable asset in a business woman, and the one who returns from her vacation looking as if she has been burned to the limit with the sun, has no excuse for this personal negligence. Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure.

COMPARISON OF GREEK AND JAPANESE MYTHOLOGY

There are some Japanese scholars who hold the opinion that the Japanese and the Greeks have come from the same stock, and that these languages are one and the same in origin, indeed, one of them goes so far as to say that Takama-ga-Hara, the first abode, was really in Greece. This I am not, of course, in a position to judge of, but one thing is certain, that there is certain similarity between Greek mythology and that of Japan. As an illustration, I shall take a story from the Kojiki, one of the oldest books of Japan, and compare it with a story from Greek mythology.

The Creation

The Japanese story as told in the Kojiki runs thus: In the beginning, a god and a goddess came down from the Heavens and created our islands. The god was Izanagi and the goddess was Izanami. From them were born many gods and goddesses. But when the Goddess Izanami gave birth to a fire-god, she was burnt to death and went into the underworld. Upon this, her husband, the God Izanagi, lamented extremely and determined, the book tells us, to go into the underworld to seek his beloved wife. The Goddess Izanami, hearing of this, came to the entrance of the underworld to meet her dear husband. The god, on seeing the goddess, was very glad and said to her: "My dear wife, the land we were making was not yet finished, when you suddenly passed away. I have been very sad since you went. Come back at once to the earth with me." The goddess replied: It is a thousand pities that you are late in coming, for I have already tasted of the food of the underworld. Now it is very difficult for me to go again to the upper world; but, as you were so kind as to come here to seek me, I will try to come over the god of the gods, I think, enough to show the similarity between the two stories. They are both stories of a journey into the underworld to seek a wife, but in both cases the hero failed to bring his wife again to the earth. Is this a mere coincidence, or have the legends of the lower world with its army to pursue her husband. The God Izanagi, when he reached in a flight the slope between this and the underworld, took three peaches off a peach-tree growing there and threw them at his pursuers. (For a long time after this the peach-tree was believed to have the power of expelling evil spirits.) These peaches had such magical power that the army of the underworld had to retreat. Finally, the goddess Izanami came herself in pursuit of her husband, and the god defended the slope from behind a huge stone. The god and the goddess stood opposed to each other with this great stone between them, and they made a vow saying that they would be man and wife no more. Then the goddess said: "Since you did this, I will hereafter kill a thousand of your people every day." "If you do so," replied the god, "I will produce fifteen hundred every day." Therefore, the book says, fifteen hundred people are born every day and a thousand people die at the same time. Thus the goddess Izanami became the greatest goddess of Hades. So much for the Japanese myth.

The Greek Story

Now let me turn to the Greek story. When Eurydice, wife of Orpheus, died, her husband, who was a wonderful musician, became so sad that at last he got permission from Jupiter to go into Hades to seek his wife. By virtue of his wonderful music, he escaped many dangers and wandered on until he came to the throne of Pluto, king of those realms. The stern ruler sat in silence on his throne, his wife Proserpine beside him. Orpheus made known his errand, and succeeded in moving the royal pair to tears, whereupon they graciously consented to restore Eurydice to life and to her fond husband's care. But one condition was imposed before he was allowed to depart: it was that he should leave the realm of the dead without turning his face to look into his beloved wife's face. Orpheus accepted the condition joyfully, and went on his way out of Hades, looking neither to the right, nor to the left, but straight before him. But, just before he reached the earth, he was overcome by his longing to see his dear wife and turned to look back. At that moment the form of his wife vanished from his sight for ever. The story does not end here, but this is, I think, enough to show the similarity between the two stories. They are both stories of a journey into the underworld to seek a wife, but in both cases the hero failed to bring his wife again to the earth. Is this a mere coincidence, or have the legends of the lower world with its army to pursue her husband. ## Naturalness a Chief Factor in Charm

When we are young we are naturally imitative. As we grow older and character develops we become less a replica of other people and our individuality more and more asserts itself.

It is well to pattern our habits on the good habits of others, perhaps. Certainly it can do no lasting harm, and it is a very safe way to become a better person. But the young woman who is constantly looking up to some one else for inspiration and guidance is in a fair way to become the echo of a stronger personality.

Beware of Being an Echo.

A young woman who is strongly individual, in speaking of her childhood, said: "I was the younger sister in a family of six—four brothers, one younger than myself, and a sister and three brothers older. As a child I was very much of a dreamer rather than a doer, sensitive and easily a prey to my teasing brothers and a doormat for my older and positive sister. "Looking back on these days of apparently negative childhood, however, I can discern certain characteristics which were encouraging and for which I am now duly thankful. I was considered fairly amiable, but I was also known as the stubbornest member of my family. It was a family saying that I was slow to anger, but that when I did get angry I was like a tempest and made things hum. And once I set my heels in the ground, nothing could budge me, though as a general thing I was very biddable.

At War With Oneself.

"As for myself, I soon learned to look upon my amiability, my temper and my stubbornness as three very undesirable attributes, of which I must rid myself at all hazards. So I went my foolish, childish way, constantly at war with myself, trying to top off the very sides of my nature which I should have been carefully cultivating.

"I was always imitating somebody else. A great reader, I never read a story that I did not immediately attempt to adopt some of the airs and graces of the heroine, though I was far too timid to flaunt them in the face of my family. That timidity saved my family much, I am sure. "My development was slow, but fate at last took a hand and I was thrown out into the world to battle not only for myself, but for others. Then, somehow from somewhere within me, there came something from under all the debris of other people's ideas and ideals, which was my own. And as last I became a woman. And, strangely enough, or perhaps it was not so strange, after all, there was a complete revolt. My timidity gave place to self-confidence; my temper learned its value and a trick of self-control, my stubbornness came to be one of my best assets and saved me from many a mistake, into which my temperamental disposition would naturally have led me; in other words, I found myself.

"I am not longer imitative. I have learned to think for myself. To express myself, I have opinions of my own, and I know how to stand by them. I am a very much stronger woman than I should ever have been, had not the circumstances of my life taken me from the bosom of my family and literally thrown me out into mid-stream to sink or swim. "If I ever had a daughter of my own I shall try to develop all this in her instead of trying to crush anything out. I have been thrown much with girls and I have found that most of them are bundles of good impulses which only need cultivating to make them wonderful women. But the trouble with us is that we so seldom want them to be natural. We are pruning here and grafting there, until when we get through with them it is a marvel if there is anything left at all of the original bit of femininity that came into the world.

Opposite Types.

"So often the shrinking violet maid emulates the flaunting poppy kind of girl and the poppy tries to become the violet, neither seeming to realize that both are lovely and have their place in the world. This is not to say that I do not think we should cultivate grace of mind and body, that we should not try to emulate others, who have proven their worth. I do. But I think it is better to be even a poor original than a poor counterfeit. Counterfeits never ring true.

FASHION DECREES.

Suit skirts are wider. The waist line is quite low. Drawn work is seen on lingerie blouses. The sports handkerchiefs are gay in color. Jacket is elaborately trimmed. Green is a popular color for evening wear.

SERVICES IN THE CITY CHURCHES

WENT TO INDIA IN INTEREST OF COOLIE LABOR IN FIJI

Bishop Twitchell, Now in London, Passed Through
Recently

"Forty-five years ago there was not one Christian among the natives of the diocese of Polynesia. They were cannibals, all of them. To-day it is an insult to a native of Fiji to refer to those days." Bishop Twitchell, of Suva, Fiji, who is now at the Lambeth Conference, having passed through here on the Makura, so stated in describing his scattered island diocese. For twelve years Bishop Twitchell has been in charge of the work of the Anglican Church in Fiji.

Polynesia is made up of scattered groups of islands in the South Pacific Ocean, south of the Hawaiian Islands. Fiji, the largest group of the islands, is the Bishop's home. His duties take him to such places as the Cook Islands and the Society Islands. To the Methodist missionaries who first brought the Gospel to these islands, Bishop Twitchell gives much of the credit for the present state of affairs.

"To-day the natives of Fiji are far removed from their days of savagery. They sent contingents to the war to fight on the side of Great Britain, a number of them laying down their lives for the Empire," said the Bishop.

He told the story of the leader of this contingent from far-away Fiji. Ratu Sakuna was the son of a chief. On the outbreak of war he was at Oxford. Not being allowed to enter the British army, he went at once to France and enlisted in the Foreign Legion, where he greatly distinguished himself and was twice wounded. Thereafter he returned to Fiji and raised the little band of 120 Fijians who passed through Canada on their way to the front.

Ratu Sakuna has obtained his degrees at Oxford and is now studying for the Bar in England, after which he will return to Fiji.

Bishop Twitchell recently went to India to investigate the Indian coolie question.

Important to Fiji.

The problem is one of much moment to Fiji. The group is about as large as Wales with a native-Fijian population of some 90,000. There are also 65,000 natives of Indian descent, three thousand whites and a mixture of other races. The chief industry is sugar growing and the custom has been to bring in Indians on indenture for five years. This has led to abuses elsewhere, and the object of the Bishop's visit to India was to make the matter with the natives themselves and with the Indian Government. As a result of these consultations he hopes that an arrangement will be made whereby only Indians who have wives and families will be brought into Fiji, and then only as free men, at liberty to leave their jobs and change their employers when they wish.

In Fiji there are some 2,000,000 acres of vacant lands which might be made very productive. It is hoped that the more intelligent of the Indians thus introduced may become settlers on these lands, owning their own leaseholds. In India Bishop Twitchell found the native sentiment strongly against any form of indenture.

Island Arts and Crafts Club.—A special meeting of the members of the Island Arts and Crafts Club will be held in the club rooms, 262-4 Union Bank Building, next to the Post Office, at 8:15 o'clock. The object is to discuss a communication from the Arts and Industrial Institute of B. C. regarding the establishment of a British Columbia Academy of Arts.

Select Candidates.—Sanich Central Ratepayers' Association last evening formally adopted Clarence Oldfield as its candidate in the Sanich School Board election. Mr. Oldfield is the son of J. H. Oldfield, of "Norfolk Lodge," Elk Lake, and is a director of both the Sanich Fruit Growers' Association and the Sanich Farmers' Co-operative Association.

STATELY SPECTACLE AT CANTERBURY

When 300 Bishops, Including Native Divines, Met For Lambeth Conference

London, Aug. 7.—The meeting of nearly 300 Archbishops and Bishops from all parts of the world at the Lambeth Conference, London, is an occasion which must appeal to the imagination not only of Churchmen but of the whole English-speaking world. In mere point of size it is significant, marking the growth of the Anglican Church from the time of the first Lambeth Conference in 1575, when Archbishop Tait addressed from St. Augustine's Throne an Assembly of thirty-six Bishops. Attending the conference are Bishops from Zanzibar, Korea, Southern Florida, Uganda, South Tokio, Lagos, Nyasaland, Tennessee, Ottawa, Grahamstown, Madras, Connecticut, Cape Town, Rupert's Land (Canada), Jamaica, Massachusetts, North China, and Zululand.

Never in England have there been gathered together at one time so many gaitered legs.

Brilliant Procession.

The sun shone upon the Bishops when they went to Canterbury at the opening of the conference. It lighted up with soft radiance the old grey stone of the cathedral, and made of the procession of Bishops in their robes of black and scarlet a brilliant spectacle. In stately order they advanced, prelating from all parts of the world, of varied ages, characters, and physiognomies.

There were some with faces like a sacrament, to look upon them was to feel assured of the possibility of an unseen world. Others there were lean and ascetic, with thin-lipped, tight-closed mouths, and faces of fanatics. Some had the faces of statesmen, clear-cut and determined; some were rugged and careworn, as if they had taken life hard; some enigmatic or neutral, and a few who did not look the part, who might, in a crowd, have been taken for anything but Bishops.

Coal-Black Divines.

The native Bishops, Bishop Oluwale, Lagos, and Bishop Dornakal, of Southern India, arrested the eye. Their coal-black faces showed up strongly, making pallid the countenances of their companions. An outstanding figure, from his commanding height, was the Bishop of Peterborough.

Viewed merely as a pageant the thing was fine. But beyond the spectacular aspect lay the deeper significance. Here were men who had journeyed, many of them thousands of miles, from the distant corners of the earth, gathered under the age-hallowed walls of the Mother-Cathedral.

It was a reunion of brothers, and in a holy and beautiful place. Last in the procession came the Archbishop preceded by his crucifer. Before the high altar stood the chair of St. Augustine, used at the crowning of the Saxon Kings of England. "I am very old, and you are very young," it seemed to say. To it came the Archbishop of Canterbury. On either side were ranged Archbishops and Bishops.

Fourteen Archbishops, including those of Canterbury and York, were present at the first corporate Communion of the members of the conference at Westminster Abbey. More than 250 Bishops were present. The American flag flew over the Abbey in commemoration of Independence Day, a graceful compliment to the American Bishops present.

SEEK UNION OF ALL THE CHURCHES

Appeal Is Issued From Lambeth Conference to All
Christian People

London, Aug. 13.—Re-union of churches is urged in an appeal to "All Christian people," framed by Bishops of the Anglican church who attended the recent conference at Lambeth, which was made public by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The appeal is "directed to the orthodox churches of the east and west, no less than to the Free churches which have grown to maturity among the Anglo-Saxon races. Its scope is so wide that there can be no doubt large numbers of the Bishops who issued it had in mind those in the great Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Congregationalist communions with whom, although they are separated from the Anglican communion, has so much in common."

The Bishops summon all the Christians to look not for an extended Anglican church of the future, to which every church should bring its own contribution of life and organization. No loose federation of independent churches is contemplated but rather a real organic unity based on fundamentals, in which there should be ample room for groups, with their own outlook and for methods such as John Wesley originally contemplated. The Bishops voice their belief that visible unity of the church will be found to involve acceptance of the Bible and of the Nicene and Apostles' Creeds, and of the sacraments of baptism and communion, and "a spirit acknowledged by every church as possessing not only the inward call of spirit, but also the communion of Christ and the authority of the whole body."

An episcopate, the statement continues, is the best method for maintaining the unity and continuity of the church. It concludes:

"We do not ask that any one communion give its consent to be absorbed in another, but we do ask that all should unite in a new and great endeavor to recover and to manifest to the world the unity of the body of Christ, for which he prayed." The Archbishop of Canterbury approved of the message, saying that the idea of it was "to make the ministry of each church acceptable to all. All other matter taken up by the Lambeth conference included the admission to the ministry of women and discussions on marriage laws, the league of nations and relations between capital and labor. The results of these discussions will be announced later.

HAD FULL PEWS; CUE FROM THEATRES

Dr. Rose, of Newark, N. J.,
Brings Church and Stage
Into Close Conjunction

There has been age-long conflict between certain elements of the church and the theatre. Time has softened this feeling of antagonism. In many instances, but there remain those who hold that the playhouse as things of evil. The theatre has taken a distinctive place in the economic world, because it has proved its worth, first, as a force of good, and, second, as a moral force in maintaining the spirits of the people in times of distress.

Dr. Henry R. Rose, of the Church of the Redeemer in Newark, N. J., has always believed in the theatre and the message which it has to deliver. With this firm conviction he began, some years ago, to demonstrate the value of good plays in the community. At certain Sunday evenings he took as his text plays then current in New York. These sermons he illustrated with slides to show the various scenes. The religious element of the meetings has never been subordinated to the entertainment feature, and the play must have a moral which Dr. Rose could expound in the course of his talk. The result followed that while other churches were complaining of empty pews, the Church of the Redeemer was too small to hold the crowds which flocked to its service.

For a number of years Dr. Rose has been delivering these talks on plays, but until "Lassie" was produced, at the New Bay Theatre, New York, there was no musical play which appealed to him as worthy of attention. So unusual, so clean and so appealing was "Lassie" that Dr. Rose selected it as the first musical play to be treated as a sermon. He arranged with the management for the use of the music from the play to embellish the pictures, and Miss Tessa Kosta, the prima donna, went to Newark to sing two of her numbers. The sermon on "Lassie" was so successful that Dr. Rose was compelled to repeat it twice, and he will use it again when the services are resumed in the Fall. A sympathetic, broad-minded man of the church was demonstrated once for all that there is a great relation between the church and the stage.

MARVELS WITHIN COVERS OF BIBLE

Book With Everlasting Freshness
Has Yet Archaic Flavor

Answering the question "Is there any humor in the Bible?" Dr. George W. Englar, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran Church in Pittsburgh, Pa., writes in The Pittsburgh Dispatch:

The Bible has between its covers the finest strains of poetry, the most memorable deeds of history, the profoundest teachings of philosophy, the most impressive experiences of personal biography, the loftiest principles of morality. There is nothing anywhere in my daily experience but I see where the feet of men mentioned in the Bible have stood there before me. There are coffins and cradles in the Bible. There are glories and glooms in the Bible. There are far ascents and deep descents in the Bible. And when I put my ear to it I hear universal man as he sob and sings and sighs and swears and supplicates. It is man's book.

"There is mystery and comedy and tragedy in that book. There is nothing happened in your life but it is in that book. There is nothing you ever did or thought but it is there in the book. And it is not only a record of a dead world, a description of to-day and a prophecy of to-morrow.

And there is humor in it, too. Who can read, for instance, the forty-sixth chapter of Isaiah without seeing the irony there? It is the description of the making of an idol. The people lavish their gold and hire a golemish who maketh it into a god. They bear it upon their shoulders. They carry it and set it in its place and it standeth. From its place it shall not remove. They cry unto it, but it cannot answer. And it came to pass at noon that Elijah said 'Cry aloud; maybe he is musing or per adventure he sleepeth.' Think you there is no humor in these lines?

Or come to the New Testament. Two men are wending their way to the Temple. The one is a Pharisee and the other is a Publican. The Pharisee stands and prays thus with himself: "Part of him is praying and part is listening. I have an idea that God in the heavens laughs at the preposterous absurdity of man measuring himself against the infinite."

The wonder is not that I find humor in the book that is intended for universal man, but the wonder, in my mind, is that so few read it and know of such a wonderful book. It charms me like the dawn, like the singing of birds in the Springtime, like the bloom of the trillium in the shady places in the woods, like the laugh of a child, like the sons of women. Above all, as Coleridge said, "It finds me" in all the moods and experiences of life.

PRESBYTERY DEAL WITH MINISTERIAL CALLS

Dr. W. K. Unsworth of Nanaimo, the Moderator, presided at a meeting of the Victoria Presbytery held last night at St. Andrew's Church. The meeting was called to deal with the resignation of Rev. T. S. Bayne, St. Coloma Church, Victoria, and also with a call to Rev. James Hood, Cumberland, from Langley Fort and Murrayville in Westminster Presbytery. After discussion the communications from Rev. Mr. Bayne were referred to St. Andrew's Church, the Presbytery on August 31, the congregation in the meantime being cited to appear.

The call to Rev. Mr. Hood was presented and reasons for acceptance were given by Rev. Mr. Campbell, Westminster Presbytery. The Cumberland congregation sent a communication opposing the translation and testifying to the satisfaction given by Mr. Hood, while gratified with the call, decided that his duty still lay in Cumberland and he was therefore unable to accept.

"SAUL" TO-MORROW

The subject of to-morrow night's address in the course of Summer Sunday evening sermons on Old Testament characters, being delivered by the Dean of Columbia, in Christ Church Cathedral, is the life of Saul. The evening service commences at half-past seven. At the eleven o'clock service to-morrow morning, Dean Quinlan will continue the series of sermons he is preaching on the Sermon on the Mount.

Preach on "Pilgrim's Progress"—At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Victoria West on Sunday evening, Dr. Maclellan will deliver the second address in a series of Sunday evening talks on Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress." This address will follow the Pilgrim from the City of Destruction to the Wicket Gate, and deal with the various characters met in this part of the allegory, evangelist, obstinate and pliable, Mr.

ROYAL STANDARD FLOUR
"makes lighter, whiter bread"

LOOK at the loaf made from Royal Standard. Examine its fine, close texture, its delightful, moist lightness and whiteness. Note its crispy crust of yellows and brown and the rich appetizing aroma at every baking.

But your Royal Standard loaf not only looks better—it is better. Every milling of Royal Standard Flour is oven-tested in our own laboratory and must come up to the Royal standard of gluten-richness. Every sack is the guaranteed product of the finest hard wheat. If you would live well and economically, bake your own bread and see that the "Circle V" is on the sack your grocer will send you.

A "Caloric" Pipeless Furnace Will Soon Pay For Itself

It costs but little to buy a "Caloric" Pipeless Furnace, and because there are no pipes it can be installed at a minimum price. After it is installed it is guaranteed to deliver one-half more heat on a consumption of one-third less fuel. That is why we say the "Caloric" Pipeless Furnace will soon pay for itself.

WOULD USE MILL WASTE FOR FUEL IN INDUSTRY HERE

City Council Is Told of Plan to Curb the Smoke Nuisance

RESIDENTS AND MILL MEN DEBATE PROBLEM

The "smoke nuisance" may be brought to an end in the near future and the mill waste which produces it converted into a valuable fuel for use in local industry, the City Council in Streets Committee yesterday afternoon, was informed by D. O. Cameron, secretary of the Cameron Lumber Company. Mr. Cameron protested strongly against the prosecution of the mills on account of the "smoke nuisance," presented a petition asking that nothing be done to put lumber plants out of business, and stated that a scheme for the use of mill waste as fuel was being investigated at present.

Mr. Cameron said he was working on a scheme to have such generators installed here to consume waste from local mills, and he was glad to announce that the plan was going forward satisfactorily. The Empire Hotel, the Sidney Rubber Roofing Company and other local concerns, he stated, had expressed willingness to install heat generators to burn mill waste, and he calculated that plants here using $80 worth of coal daily could economize to the extent of $30 a day in this way. If the scheme proved successful, remarked Mr. Cameron, his company would organize an efficient delivery system to carry mill waste to the consumers.

W. E. Nachtrieb, who is familiar with the generator to which Mr. Cameron referred, supported his statements regarding it.

Protest Against Prosecutions.

Mr. Cameron protested strongly against the prosecution of mills under the provisions of the Smoke Nuisance By-law, which, he said, mills could not obey strictly. In this connection he presented a petition supporting the sawmills and signed by 718 firms in the business district, 227 white employees of the mills and 149 residents of the factory district in which the mills are situated and in which the "smoke nuisance" is said to prevail.

The Cameron Lumber Company, declared Mr. Cameron, had been informed by experts—as had the police magistrate during the recent trial of the Canadian Puget Sound Timber and Lumber Company—that it was virtually impossible to construct a mill burner which would prevent entirely the escape of mill refuse. The company had done its best to prevent the nuisance and was prepared to pay but further large sums of money to anyone who would install a really efficient burner. He claimed that the Council had no right to enforce a by-law which the mills could not obey and continue operations when the civic authorities were unable to suggest any remedy.

Residents Complain.

Residents of the mill district also appeared before the Council to voice the other side of the case. D. B. Plunkett informed the aldermen that

WILSON'S SIX INJURED IN MOTOR CRASHES

Yakima Party Have Car Wrecked By Truck on Malahat

When a heavy truck driven by Arthur Irvin for Cliff Cameron took to the right side of the road to make the hill on the Malahat about seven miles from Victoria late yesterday, it ran into and demolished the car of K. L. Johnson, of Yakima, Wash., so badly that the car had to be left a mass of scrap iron at the side of the road.

Mrs. Johnson had one of her knees wrenched. Mr. Johnson was badly bruised. Two others traveling in the rear seat were shaken up, although they feared at first that the big truck was going to juggernaut right over them.

The Johnson party were touring down the Island from Nanaimo on their way to Seattle on the Georgian Circuit.

Irvin said that if he had not taken to the wrong side of the road he would not have been able to get enough momentum to get the ponderous truck up the hill.

Police have been called in and are investigating.

Demolished by Electric Train.

A Saanich Interurban electric train demolished a light truck at Stelly's Station Thursday evening. F. Verrier, of West Road, Keating, the driver, and his brother-in-law, J. E. Gilbert, who was taking a ride with him, were injured. Mr. Gilbert was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where surgeons have been attending him. They found that his head received a stunning blow. He will be detained three weeks. Verrier was taken to his home, where he is under medical care.

Mr. Verrier Explains that he was approaching the railway track very carefully because a large pile of lumber prevented him from having a clear view. He heard no whistle or gong. Just as his truck got on the track an electric train crashed on top of them, is all he knows, he says.

TO TRY TO PAVE ESQUIMALT ROAD

City Has Reached Agreement With Government, Council Informed

An agreement which may result in the paving of Esquimalt Road this year has been reached between the city and the Provincial Government. The Streets Committee of the City Council was informed by Mayor Porter yesterday afternoon. The committee instructed the City Solicitor to draw up the agreement in writing in order that the work may proceed as soon as possible. As a matter of fact, special legislation will have to be secured to validate the agreement, but the agreement meanwhile will make it possible to start laying the paving, the committee was told.

The portion of Esquimalt Road, which is to be paved, will be paved between Point Ellice Bridge and Springfield Avenue. The Government, the Streets Committee learned, has agreed to have a strip extending from a point near the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Tracks, Lime Point, to the top of the hill on the Esquimalt side of the Point Ellice Bridge, or about half of the total length of roadway to be paved. The cost of the whole work will be about $50,000, and the Provincial Government will be asked to pay about $20,000 of this. The paving will be of concrete, forty feet wide and with a five-foot pavement on either side. It is estimated that the paving of the road will occupy about three months.

COUNCIL APPROVES TAX RELIEF SCHEME

Alderman W. J. Sargent's plan to withhold a large amount of property from the October tax sale was approved by the City Council in Streets Committee yesterday afternoon and will receive formal approval by the Council Monday night.

As outlined in these columns before the plan provides that lands which owners must pay this year's installment under the ten-year relief plan and also the current year's taxes, shall not be placed in the tax sale for default in paying the taxes. The civic authorities fear that, if no action were taken to prevent it, the result of present conditions would be a land slide of property into the sale. About 1,500 people are affected by the Council's decision on the matter. As the withdrawal of the land from the sale is contrary to the city's recent private bills, legislation approving the change will have to be secured at the next session of the Legislature.
